Newton: Petty Sessions: Tuesday, before G.B. Ellicombe, Esq., (in the chair), W.J. Watts, Esq., Admiral Cornish-Bowden, J. G. Beavan, Esq., Dr. Atkinson, and H. E. Brown, Esq.: Henry Hammacott, who did not appear, was charged with stealing greens of the value of 2d from a garden in the Kingsteignton Road, belonging to Daniel Mogridge, on Wednesday the 14th inst. The facts were deposed by P.C. Salter, and the Bench ordered a warrant to be issued for the apprehension of the defendant: John Knapman: proprietor of the Moor Park Hotel, Chagford, was summoned for having on the 27th Nov. unlawfully attempted to defraud the Great Western Railway Company by using a ticket which had already been used between Moretonhampstead and Newton Abbot: According to the evidence of several railway servants, called by Mr. F. Hockaday, an Inspector of the Company, it appears that on the day named the defendants took a Parliamentary ticket at Moreton by the 10.50 a.m. train to Torquay. He returned to Moreton by the 11.53 a.m. the same day without a ticket, saying he had met a friend at Newton and had forgotten to take a return ticket. Mr. John Mugford, the Station Master at Moreton, accepted a shilling in payment of the fare. By the 7.15 p.m. train from Moreton, the defendant went on the same day to Newton, but did not take a ticket and, at Newton, Mr. Pinsent, instructed by the Station master at Teignmouth, examined his ticket, finding by the number that it was the ticket issued by the 10.50 a.m. train. The defendant said he was guilty of the offence, but he had no intention to defraud the Company: It was pure mistake, He could call Mr. Muggs, the station master at Newton, in confirmation of this, but that gentleman was ill. The Bench told the defendant he ought to know more of the rules of the Company than to believe he could travel twice over the same line with one ticket. They must inflict the full penalty of £2, with £1 2s 6d costs.

Residential Estate in Devonshire: The Greenhill Estate, a freehold residential property, situated on the rising land forming the Northern bank of the river Teign, in the parish of Kingsteignton, was sold by auction, at the Royal Clarence Hotel, Exeter, by Statham Hobson, of the firm of Statham Hobson, Richards, and Co., Coleman Street, London. The property comprises rather more than 40 acres of rich pastureland, pleasure grounds and orchards; with residence surrounded by terrace walks and pleasure gardens laid out at considerable cost; and planted with many valuable trees, shrubs, &c., an Italian garden with fountain; a moat, lake, with islands of local stone; an extensive range of conservatories, large kitchen garden and well-stocked orchards. The stabling and outbuildings are well arranged, substantially built, and sufficiently roomy for a small hunting establishment and stock farm. Many of the buildings having been erected by Pinsent, a former owner, for the accommodation of a small herd of shorthorns. The property is well situated for hunting and fishing and makes a pleasure of many charms well suited for a gentleman fond of rural pursuits. The auctioneer announced that the purchaser might take the timber at £50, or by valuation. The property was put up in one lot and started at £4,000. The bidding lay between Mr Symons (Rendell and Symons, land agents and auctioneers, Totnes) and Mr W. S. Borton, of Totnes, and after a spirited competition the latter became the purchaser at the very satisfactory price of £5,550. There was not a very large attendance.

Petty Sessions: Yesterday: Before Dr. Atkinson and J. Vicary, Esq. ... Reuben Blatchford was charged with wilfully breaking glass, value 6s 6d, belonging to Albert Prowse of Highweek, on the 19th June. This case arose out of the following: On the night in question, the complainant's brother-in-law had been found by his wife in a certain house, and when he left was followed by two or three hundred persons until he sought shelter in the house of his sister. The crowd demanded to have him turned out. Failing that, several panes of glass were broken. It was alleged by the defendant who threw the stones: Jane Prowse, wife of the complainant, said she saw the defendant taking the most active part in the affray. She told him he had broken the glass. He replied, "If you don't mention my name, I will put the glass in all right". He was the ringleader of the mob, and if P.C. Salter hadn't taken him away, she believed matters would have been much worse. Witness saw the defendant a few days afterwards and asked when he was going to put in the glass. He then denied having broken it, and said he should not put it in. Defendants now said he was standing by Mr. Pinsent's door when the mob came up and someone threw some water out on their heads. Stones were then thrown at the window, and Mr. Prowse, knowing him, accused him of throwing them. He denied having done so. P. C.s' Evens and Salter and Geo.

Groves gave evidence in the case: Defendant was fined 13s 6d in addition to the 6s 6d, the value of the glass, or 14 days in default.

Funeral of Lord Clifford: The remains of the Hon. Chas. Hugh, eighth Lord Clifford, were interred on Monday at Ugbrooke Park, near Chudleigh, the seat for many generations of the Clifford family. Born in London, July 27th, 1819, the deceased nobleman had just attained his sixty-first year when the symptoms, which have long made him a patient under medical treatment at length, took a fatal turn, and he expired on Thursday. There was a large and representative gathering at the funeral, which took place in the private chapel attached to the residence and was conducted in accordance with the ritual of the Church of Rome. The principal mourners were - Lady Clifford, the present Lord Clifford, the Hon. Walter Clifford (sons of the deceased), Honourables Misses Emma, Cecilia, and Eda Clifford (daughters), and Sir C. Clifford, Atherton Park. Among the large number who also attended were ... (includes) ... The tenantry who were present in very full numbers included the following: Messrs. Kingsteignton: The British School: The number of children attending this school having increased beyond the accommodation; additional rooms have been erected by Savery Pinsent, esq. These rooms, one of which will be used for the infants and another as a reading room, were formally opened by the Rev. J. Sellicks, of Newton Abbot, on Thursday. At the same time a bazaar was held on behalf of the funds of the school. The friends were fortunate in having a fine day for their undertaking. The bazaar opened at two p.m. At 4.30, the Rev. R. W. Row introduced Mr. Sellicks to those assembled. The Rev. gentleman in the course of his address, whilst holding that only faith in Christ will save a man, urged upon all the importance of education. He said that whilst holding it was true that there were learned scoundrels, and educated villains, yet there was in education an enlightening and elevation influence. He entreated all to attend to the education of their children, and not forget themselves, but to take advantage of the reading room, and prepare themselves for the time, not far distant, when they would have a vote and ought to know how to use it and support the Government that was best for the country. He spoke in praise of the work Mr. Pinsent was doing in Kingsteignton, and then declared the rooms open. S. Pinsent Esq. briefly sketched the history of the movement in the village, the work done by former labourers in the cause, including Mr. Burd, and that of his own father, in whose footsteps he was proud to tread. He desired no praise but only wished to see the work prosper and the people taking advantage of their privileges and getting best accordingly. The work of selling was then recommenced. The large room at the school, which was tastefully decorated, was used for the sale of work and for the music. Another room was set apart for refreshments which had been given by Mr. Pinsent's Bible Class: Mrs. Walling, senior and junior, and the Misses Walling being caterers. All praised the admirable way in which this department was managed. Great delight was experienced in a third room, termed the "Exhibition," which included the Rev. R.W. Rose's collection of old China, curiosities lent by Dr. Stradling, Mr. P. B. Mann, and Mr. Windsor, and a "Fine Art Gallery" containing forty choice pictures such as the "The Deserted Home" (an eggshell), (etc.) The visitors were enlivened by vocal and instrumental music. The singers being Mrs. J. Snow, Miss Hellier, and Miss Snow, and Messrs. Freestone, Hellier, S. O. Row and A. Snow; the pianists Miss Legier, Misses Cornish, and Miss Hellier. The proceeds on Thursday amounted to nearly £70. This with private sales and subscriptions, made the sum realized over £100. The ladies who kept the stall were Mrs. Cornish, Mrs. T. Snow, Mrs. Smallbridge, Mrs. Freestone, Miss Snow, Miss Murrin, and Mrs. T. Knowles and a number of others assisting.

Police News: Newton Abbot To-Day: Before Dr. Atkisson: James Follet, Jonathan Prowse, Richard Myhill, George Millman, Bargemen and John Frost, owner of a barge, were charged with having on or about the 13th and 14th December stolen a quantity of coal – to wit, about twelve tons, property of Mr. John Ball Pinsent, coal merchant of this town. Mr. Creed prosecuted. The facts were these. About ten days ago a vessel called the Fanny put into Teignmouth laden with coal for Mr. J. B. Pinsent. From the vessel it was weighed into barges which held about thirty tons each. One of these barges was worked by Follett and Prowse, and left Teignmouth last Saturday week and, on the Sunday, it was anchored near Netherton Point. On Monday morning the barge arrived at Mr. Pinsent's cellars, and there it was seen by a man named Lang to contain less coal by five or six tons than when it left Teignmouth. The next barge worked by Myhill and another prisoner arrived at prosecutor's Cellars and that also was short in quantity. On Monday Lang said he saw the lighter just abreast of Coombe Cellars, and near it was a boat that he considered belonged to frost. A man named Trust said he was employed by Frost to unload a barge of coal at Archerbrook, and it was carted away by Walter Morey and his man, of Coombe. That was on the 6th inst. Yesterday (Tuesday). P.O. White apprehended Frost and charged him with stealing a quantity of coal belonging to Mr. Pinsent. Prisoner said he picked up the coal on the banks of the river and sold it to Morey for 7s. 6d. per ton. Mr. W. Holmes, clerk to Mr. Pinsent, said he accompanied White to Morey's cellars and there saw a quantity of coal, apparently of the same kind as that supplied to Mr. Pinsent. It was quite clean and fresh as if just taken from the vessel. Prisoners were then remanded to the Petty Sessions on Tuesday. The lightermen were admitted to bail. Frost was remanded in custody.

Echo (London): Thursday 23rd December 1880

Yesterday at Newton Abbot four bargemen, named Follett, Prowse, Mayhill and Millman, and John Frost, barge owner, were charged with stealing 12 tons of coal, the property of Mr. Pinsent. The prisoners took coals from Teignmouth to Newton Abbot for Mr. Pinsent, and on Monday last their barges were seen to be short of the quantity with which they started from Teignmouth, and it was ascertained that they had sold some coal to a person on the way. One of the prisoners said he picked up the coals he sold on the banks of the river. They were remanded.

Exeter and Plymouth Gazette: Friday 24th December 1880

Alleged Robbery of Coal: At the Police-court, on Wednesday, before Dr. Atkinson and J. Vicary, Esq., James Follett, Jonathan Prowse, Richard Myhall, and George Millman, bargemen, and John Frost, owner of a barge, were charged with stealing, on or about the 13th or 14th instant, twelve tons of coal, value £12, the property of Mr. J. B. Pinsent, coal merchant, of Highweek. Mr. Creed appeared for the prosecution, and, according to his statement, the facts of the case were as follows: Ten days ago, the vessel Fanny, with a cargo of coal for Mr. Pinsent, arrived at Teignmouth, after which the coals were conveyed up the River Teign to Newton in two of Messrs. Watts, Blake, Bearne, and Co.'s barges. When these barges left Teignmouth, on Saturday week, laden with 30 tons of coal, one was in the charge of Follett and Prowse, and the other of Myhall and Millman. One of the barges arrived at Newton on Monday and the other on Tuesday, and it was then observed by William Henry Lang, overseer of the prosecutor's coal-cellars, that a portion of the coals had been taken from the barges after they had left Teignmouth. The theory of the prosecution was that, whilst the barges laid off Coombe Cellars, during Sunday night week, the twelve tons of coal the prisoners were charged with stealing, were taken from them and put on board a small barge belonging to the prisoner Frost, who, it was alleged, had sold the coals to a man at Coombeinteighhead. A curious fact connection with the robbery is that the coal was unladen from Frost's barge by the man Trust, who has only recently come out of prison for his participation in the robberies on the railway, near Newton Station, some time since. It is not, however, implied that on this occasion Trust knew that the coal was stolen. Mr. Creed examined several witness's tor the prosecution, after which he applied for a remand, to enable him to produce additional evidence. The application was granted, and the case adjourned to the Petty Sessions on Tuesday next. All the prisoners, with the exception of Frost, were admitted to Bail.

Alleged Wholesale Robbery: Yesterday, at the Newton Police-court, before Dr. Atkinson and J. Vicary, Esq.: James Follett, Jonathan Prowse, Richard Myhill, George Millman, bargemen and John Frost, owner of a barge were charged with having on the 13th and 14th December, stolen about 12 tons of coals, valued at £12, the property of Mr. John Ball Pinsent, coal merchant of this town. – Mr. Creed prosecuted and stated that about ten days ago a vessel called the “Fanny” arrived at Teignmouth with a cargo of coal for Mr. Pinsent. The coal is there weighted out into barges that hold about 30 tons each, and conveyed to Newton, but is not again weighed on delivery. Two barges thus loaded were worked by the defendants; one belonging to Messrs. Watts, Blake, Bearne and Co. and the other to the Clay Company: That worked by Follett and Prowse was dispatched from Teignmouth last Saturday week and that by the other two defendants the Monday after. Both had to anchor near Coombe Cellars to await the following tide, and he should show by a man named Lang that he saw a small lighter, which he believed belonged to the prisoner Frost, near one of the lighters, and that when they arrive at the prosecutors’ stores, the quantity of coal was considerably reduced. He should also show that Frost employed a man named Trust to unload a lighter of coals at Archerbrook, near Coombe Cellars, and that it was carted away by a dealer of Coombe named Walter Morey to whom it was sold for 17s 6d a ton. Frost’s statement, he believed, was that he gathered up the coals on the bank of the river, but he should show by Mr. Pinsent’s clerk, and also the policeman who saw the coals the previous day in Moresy’s store, that it was the same kind of coal as that supplied to Mr. Pinsent, and that it was quite clean as when taken from the vessel. These facts were borne out by witnesses Lang and Trust, P.C. White and Mr. W. Holmes, clerk to Mr. Pinsent. A remand was then applied for and granted to Tuesday next. The bargemen were granted bail, but it was refused to Frost.

A charge of coal stealing of unusual magnitude was brought before the county magistrates at Newton Abbot on Wednesday. The accused were James Follett, Jonathan Prowse, Richard Mayhill, George Millman, bargemen, and John Frost, owner of barge, and they were charged with haring, on about Dec. 13 and 14, stolen about 12 tons coal, the property Mr. Pinsent, coal merchant of the town. About ten days ago, a vessel called the Fanny put into Teignmouth, laden with coal, for Mr. Pinsent. From the vessel coal was weighed into barges, which held about 30 tons each. On Monday morning the barge arrived at Mr. Pinsent's cellar, and there it was noticed by a man named Lang to contain less coal by five or six tons than when it left Teignmouth. The next barge, worked by Mayhill and another prisoner, arrived at the prosecutor's cellars, and that was also short in quantity. Wednesday, police-constable White apprehended Frost, and charged him with stealing coal. Prisoner said he picked up the coal on the banks of the river and sold it to Morey for 7s. 6d per ton. Prisoners were remanded.

Western Times: Wednesday 29th December 1880

The Alleged Robbery of Coal: James Follett, Jonathon Prowse, Richard Myhill, George Millman, bargemen, appeared to their recognizance, and John Frost, in custody, barge owner, were charged with having on the 13th and 14th December stolen about 12 tons of coal, valued at £12, the property of Mr. John B. Pinsent, coal merchant, of this town. Walter Morey: Coal dealer, of Coombeinteignhead, also in custody were charged with receiving the coals in question knowing them to have been stolen. Mr. Creed prosecuted; Mr. May defended all the prisoners: The depositions taken on the last occasion and already published were read over and confirmed. Mr. Lang, foreman to Messrs. Watts and Co., in cross-examination by Mr. May, said that from the state of the weather on the days that the barges left Teignmouth, it was impossible for them to reach Newton by one tide, and consequently they would have to anchor in the river. It is usual on these occasions for the bargemen to leave their barges and go on shore. William Trust, smith, of Newton, who unloaded the coal for Frost from his barge to Morey's cars, said in cross-examination that the coals were not weighed on delivery. There was nothing peculiar about them, only they appeared to be wettish: P.C. White, said when he went to Morey's cellar at Coombeinteighthead to inquire about the coals he had unladed previous day at Archerbrook, Morey did not hesitate to show the coal, but refused to give any information as to who he got them from. They appeared as if recently taken from a vessel, large and small together, and perfectly dry. He subsequently produced a receipt he received from Frost for 12 tons of coal, at 17s 6d – £10 10s. It was a stamped receipt. Mr. Holmes, clerk to Mr. Pinsent, in continuation of his evidence, said the coal brought by the "Fanny" was Northumberland Wallsend, and was precisely the same sort as that found in Morey's cellar. It was impossible to render that coal as Coombe Cellars for 17s 6d per ton; it was worth 21s per ton at Teignmouth. Charles Brewer, who was employed by Mr. Pinsent to weigh the coal from the "Fanny" said there were 30 tons put into each of the barges worked by the prisoners. The coal was not weighed again when discharged from the lighters. Charles Baker, who resides at Coombe, said he saw a lighter apparently laden with coals a short distance from Coombe Cellars on Sunday, the 12th, and another on the 13th, and on each occasion, there was a smaller barge near them. He could not say who the smaller barge belonged to. He saw Frost going from Coombe Cellars to Coombe on Monday night. George Martin, who also resides at Coombe, gave similar evidence as to the barges. He saw Frost at Coombe on Monday evening, the 13th, and again early the following morning. That was the case for the prosecution. For the defence, Mr. May argues as to the four bargemen. There was no evidence to show that they had any guilty knowledge of any theft of coal having taken place. It was proved in evidence that they did only that which was the common practice to do when the tide did not serve sufficiently, or the wind was contrary, for bargemen to moor their barges in the river, and then leave for their homes, and wait the next tide, leaving their cargoes unprotected. He submitted there was no evidence at all against them to send them for trial. The same argument he intimated, as to the guilty knowledge, applied to Morey. As regarded Frost, he had no doubt the Bench would commit him for trial, and consequently as regard him he should reserve his defence. George Scott and Henry Miller bargemen were called to show that it was the practice when men moored their barges in the river for them to leave and go their homes until the next tide. Prisoners did go with their barges, and if any robbery was committed it was during their absence. George Finnings, who resides at Coombe Cellars, had frequently seen a quantity of coal in the bed of the river between Teignmouth, gashouse and Teignmouth: As to the four bargemen, the Bench said that although there was strong suspicion attached to them, the evidence was not sufficient to send them for trial. They were consequently discharged. Morey and Frost were committed for trial to the Quarter Sessions. Bail was applied for and refused.

Exeter and Plymouth Gazette: Friday 31st December 1880

The Alleged Robbery of Coal: At the Petty Sessions, on Tuesday, before J. Vicary, Esq. (Chairman), Admiral Cornish-Bowden, Dr. Atkinson, and G. B. Ellicombe Esq.: James Follett, Jonathan Prowse, Richard Myhill, George Millman, bargeman, and John Frost, barge owner were charged on remand with stealing, on the 13th or 14th of December, twelve tons of coal, value the Property of J. B. Pinsent, coal merchant, of Highweek; and Walter Morey, baker and coal dealer of Combeinteignhead, was charged with feloniously receiving the coal, knowing it to have been stolen. Mr. Creed prosecuted and Mr. May defended all the prisoners: The case for the prosecution was that, whilst 60 tons of coal were being conveyed up the river Teign from Teignmouth to Newton, 12 tons were abstracted from the two barges as they lay off Coombe Cellars tide bound. These two barges were in the charge of the four first-named prisoners, and it was further alleged that the 12 tons were put into a smaller barge, belonging to Frost, and by him sold to Morey who fetched the coal away in two carts. Morey stated that paid Frost 17s. 6d. per ton for the coal, which Frost said he picked up in the river, and that some of it had been lying on the banks for six months. Frost's man, Trust, who unloaded the coal, said it was "wettish." On the arrival of the two barges at the wharf at Newton it was noticed that the loads of coal appeared smaller than they were when they left Teignmouth, and inquiries eliciting what had occurred at Coombe Cellars (halfway up the river), led to the apprehension first of the bargemen and subsequently of Morey. In contradiction to the statement of Trust, Mr. Holmes, managing clerk to Prosecutor, asserted that the coal that he saw in Mr. Morey's cellar was perfectly dry and clean and had not the appearance of having been the water or lain the banks the river He further asserted that coal of that description (Northumberland Wallsend) could not be rendered at Coombe Cellars a 17s 6d per ton, as its present price at Teignmouth would be 21s per ton. This statement was confirmed by the prosecutor, whilst Mr. William Rendell, farmer, of Coombeinteignhead, said he had never seen any coal on the bank of the river for the three quarters-of-a-mile which adjoined his farm. Prosecutor added that the sort of coal found in Morey's cellar was only consigned to himself and one or two other coal merchants at Newton and Teignmouth, and he had suspected the loss of coal for some years. In stocktaking he had always discovered a deficiency, and he attributed this to the fact that the coal had been "prigged" in the river. Mr. May, in defence, contended that there was no evidence whatever to connect the four first-named bargemen with the robbery, and that the conduct of Morey was that of a man who had no guilty knowledge in purchasing the coal. In respect to Frost, he reserved his defence, believing that he could account for his possession of the coal in a way which, though it might not satisfy the Bench, would satisfy a jury. Two bargemen, named Scott and Miller, were called to show that the two bargemen Millman and Myhill, were absent from their barges for some time while they lay in the river; that, if the coal was taken away, it must have been during their absence, but that they (the witnesses) did not notice any diminution in the loads. Another witness for the defence, named Finning of the Ferryboat Inn, Coombe Cellars, stated that, while fishing, he had occasionally seen tons of coal lying in deep water in the river Teign, at low tide. He had also seen boats dredging for coal there, but he admitted that it must have occupied a very long time to have taken up 12 tons of coal from the bed the river. He accounted for the coal being there by the barges in which it was conveyed from Teignmouth overturning at Shaldon Bridge rough weather. After the Magistrates had retired some time for consultation, the Chairman said they had decided to commit the prisoners Frost and Morey for trial. They also considered that great suspicion rested upon the four bargemen for not reporting the diminution of their loads of coal on their arriving at Newton from Teignmouth, but, as there was not sufficient legal evidence to justify their committal, they would be discharged. Mr. May applied for bail for Frost and Morey, and the application was opposed by Mr. Creed on the grounds that the robbery was a serious one, and that the Quarter Sessions would commence next week. The Bench refused to grant bail to either prisoner. The case occupied upwards of five hours.

Devon Quarter Sessions: 10-Day's Proceedings: First Court: Before the Earl of Devon, and Mr. W. H. Halliday: Alleged Coal Robberies at Newton: John Frost, 62, bargeman, and Walter Morey, 32, coal dealer, were indicted, the former for stealing, and the latter for receiving, 12 tons of coal, the property of John B. Pinsent. The Hon. Bernard Coleridge prosecuted. Frost was defended by Mr. St. Aubyn, M.P., and Morey by Mr. Pitt Lewis. In opening the case the Hon. Bernard Coleridge said that Teignmouth and Newton Abbot were about five miles apart, and a set of barges plied up and down between the two places. The barges belonged to Messrs. Watts, Blake, and Bearne, and were needed for bringing clay from Newton to Teignmouth, where after discharging their cargo, they were loaded with coal, which they took back to Newton. On the 13th and 14th December, the barges were laden with coal from the schooner Fanny, at Teignmouth, for conveyance to Mr. Pinsent's stores, at Newton Abbot. The barges were in the charge of Messrs. Watt's men. The prisoner Frost was the owner of a much smaller barge, and the other prisoners had stores at Coombe Cellar., a place situated on the river between Teignmouth and Newton. Messrs. Watts and Co. instructed their foreman to watch the loading and discharging of the barges receiving coal from the Fanny. The barge from which the coal was said to have been taken was so heavily laden that the coal was piled two feet above the combing. The barges did not reach Newton until the next morning, and the cargo was then below the combing, and about six tons appeared to have been taken from the cargo. On the following day the barge was again loaded with coal from the Fanny, the cargo being piled two feet above the combing. The barge did not arrive at Newton until the following morning and then about six tons appeared to have been taken from the cargo. While the barge was on its way to Newton, a large barge was noticed lying off Coombe Cellars where Morey had his stores, and by the side this barge was a smaller one having a square stern. There were only two such barges with square sterns on the river, and one of these belonged to Frost, and from such a barge, 12 tons of coal were subsequently unloaded by Frost and delivered to Morey in his cellars. The coal was Walsend, and similar to that taken from the Fancy. On being questioned as to how he got the coals, Morey at first declined to make any statement, but subsequently produced a receipt for £10 10s, given by Frost for barging twelve tons of coal at 17s 6d per ton, which was an absurd price for best Walsend coal. When Frost was questioned, he stated that he had only received £3 for twelve tons and when asked where he got the coals, he said he picked them up in the liver. Witnesses were called by the prosecution, who denied the facts as stated above. The prosecutor said the price of the class of coal referred to was 19s 6d per ton to the merchant. He never knew of any quantity of coal being thrown overboard, and the coal in Morey's cellar was dry, and did not appear to have been in the river. Mr. Aubyn, on behalf of Frost, contended that there was no proof that any coal had been stolen. From the first Frost had dealt openly in the matter. There was no specific loss proved, and he should call the man in charge of the barges in question who would swear that the coal was in exactly the same condition when discharged at Newton as when loaded at Teignmouth. John Prowse, the lighterman, in charge of the barge in question, said he was originally charged with the prisoners with stealing coal, but dismissed by the magistrates. He would swear that no coal was taken from the barge during conveyance from Teignmouth to Newton. Other witnesses were called as to his character. Mr. Pitt-Lewis submitted that there was no evidence against Morey. There was no proof of any coal having been taken from the barge, and there was, therefore, no evidence to sustain a charge of receiving stolen goods. The jury found the prisoners guilty. Mr. Coleridge said he did not propose to offer any evidence on the second charge. His Lordship, in passing sentence, said he believed the jury had found a just verdict. Great facilities were afforded for robberies of property of this description, which it was difficult to protect, and it was necessary that the law should offer every possible protection. The prisoners were sentenced to eight months' imprisonment each, with hard labour.

Halliday, Esq.: Alleged Extensive Coal Robberies: John Frost, 52, bargeman, and Walter Morey, 32, coal dealer, were indicted: the former for stealing and the latter for receiving, twelve tons of coal, the property of John B. Pinsent. The Hon. Bernard Coleridge appeared for the prosecution; Mr. Molesworth St. Aubyn, M.P., appeared for Frost, and Mr. Pitt- Lewis for Morey. In stating the case for the prosecution, Mr. Coleridge said the evidence would be purely circumstantial. Teignmouth and Newton were about five miles apart, and a fleet of barges plied up and down the Teign between the two places. These barges took clay from Newton to Teignmouth for Messrs. Watts, Blake, and Bearne, and returned to Newton with coals. The schooner "Fanny" put into Teignmouth with a cargo of coals for Mr. Pinsent, coal merchant, of Newton Abbot, and this was delivered into barges for conveyance to the prosecutor's wharf at Newton Abbot. The barges were started on the 13th and 14th of December and were in charge of Messrs. Watts' men. The prisoner Frost owned a much smaller barge, which plied on the river, and the prisoner Morey had stores at Coombe Cellars, a place in the river midway between Teignmouth and Newton. Unless there were exceptional circumstances a barge could go from Teignmouth to Newton in one tide, but on the 13th there was an exceptional circumstance in the very strong tide, and consequently the fact that a barge starting from Teignmouth on that day did not reach Newton until the next morning did not excite suspicion. Events, however, had happened which led Messrs. Watts, Blake, and Bearne to take steps to see that the same quantity of coal that was shipped into the barges arrived at Newton. They accordingly employed their foreman to observe the barges loaded from the "Fanny," and on Tuesday morning he saw on the arrival of the first barge that whilst the coal was two feet above the combing when it left Teignmouth, the cargo was below the combing when it reached Newton, and about six tons appeared to be missing. There was a second barge which was loaded in exactly the same manner, but which arrived the next day at the wharf; in this one there was somewhere about six tons less of coal than was put into it at Teignmouth. Subsequently twelve tons of coal were found in a barge belonging to Frost moored off Coombe Cellars. There were only two square-end barges upon the river. One of these belonged to Frost. Such an one was seen close to the second barge as it lay off Coombe Cellars, and from such a one belonging to Frost 12 tons coal were unloaded. These coals were delivered by Frost to Morey and taken by him to his cellars. When Morey was seen and questioned, he at first fenced, and then declined to give any information, but when pressed, admitted that he had had some coals from Frost. An inspection of Morey's cellars led to the discovery that the coals were Northumberland Wallsend, the same sort of coal as that which was delivered from the Fanny and consigned to the prosecutor. When asked where he obtained these coals, Morey eventually produced a receipt for £10 10s, given by Frost for "barging" 12 tons of coal at 17s 6d per ton. Now, even accepting the curious term "barging" as intended to convey a sale, 17s 6d per ton was an absurd price for best Northumberland Wallsend coal, and it could never have been honestly sold at the price. But there was this further fact — that when Frost was seen he admitted that he only received £3 for these twelve tons, and when asked where he got them said he picked them up in the river. Setting aside possibility of a man picking up 12 tons of coal in the river, there was the fact that the coals in Morey's cellar were quite dry and clean and did not bear any marks of having been in the water. During the examination of witnesses, it was stated that this kind of coal cost the merchants in Devonshire 19s per ton. Prosecutor said he had never known any quantity of coal thrown overboard in the Teign, most certainly the coal in Morey's cellars had not been in the water and could not have been picked up in the river. It was admitted that Morey produced the receipt given him by Frost when he was asked so, because he would thereby facilitate the enquiry that was being made. A witness was called who said although he was frequently by the river on the day the coal was delivered Frost to Morey, yet he did not see any coal there, and certainly no quantity approaching 12 tons. In the defence of Frost, Mr. St. AUBYN said it was admitted that the case was one of great importance all parties. On the main facts he was not at issue with the prosecution. But, a matter of fact, there was no proof that any coal had been stolen, because, although there were 30 tons weighed into the barge, there was no evidence whatever that the same quantity did not reach Newton, for the coal was not weighed out of the barge. The jury were asked to say that which no one else had been able swear to — that six tons of coal were stolen out of each of these barges. This coal was of a class that was common, and which anyone could purchase. A man was not bound to say where he got his goods and seeing that there had been some rumours flying about, Frost naturally hesitated to answer every question that anyone choosed to ask him. He admitted that the statement made by Frost — that he picked the coals in the river — was an absurd assertion, and he should think Frost must have been out of his senses when he made the statement, because it was "too great a lie" to be believed. Frost from the first dealt plainly and openly with the coals. He was a man of good character, and there was no reason why he should now be charged with theft. As he had said, was no specific loss proven, and he should call the evidence of the men in charge of the barges, who would swear that the coal was in exactly the same condition as to quantity when the barges reached Newton as when they left — John Prowse, a lighterman, still in the employ of Watts, Blake, and Bearne — but who was originally charged with the prisoners, but dismissed by the magistrates — was called, and swore that there was nothing taken out the first barge in its trip between Teignmouth and Newton.— Evidence was given as the good character of both prisoners. For the defence of Morey, Mr. Pitt-Lewis pointed out that it had been held that there was no evidence against Morey of having stolen the coals, and the question was whether received the coals from Frost — even if Frost stole them — knowing that they were stolen. In the first place the jury must be satisfied that the coals found in Moreys cellar were stolen, and if stolen, did he know that they were the proceeds of a robbery? The gist of the evidence against Morey was contained in conversation, but the cross-examination to which he had subjected some witnesses showed how unreliable evidence of this kind was. A verdict of guilty was returned against both prisoners, and after this Mr. Coleridge intimated that he would not offer any evidence on the second indictment. His Lordship said although it was painful to sentence men who had borne good characters for so long a period, yet there could be but little doubt the verdict was a right one. Property of this kind being so much exposed, it was necessary that the law should give it every possible protection. The prisoners would be each sentenced to eight months' hard labour.

BATHING FATALITY AT NEWTON. Saturday morning a party of four or five young men went to the river Teign, near Buckland Point, Newton to bathe. The only one well able to swim was the Rev. G. C. Percival but having a cold he did not intend to venture into the water on that occasion. The first to enter was Mr. Tingle Holmes, aged 23, clerk at the Newton Bank. He was a learner of the art of swimming, and ventured too far out into the current, which was very strong at the time — stronger, it was said, than had been known for years. He soon lost all power over himself and cried out for help. Mr. Percival, seeing his perilous position, rushed to his assistance with his clothes on. He, however, could not breast the current, and failing to reach him hastened again to land to rid himself of his clothes, which having done he returned to the rescue. He seized the poor drowning young fellow by the hair and attempted to pull him ashore, but could not succeed, and losing his hold tried with his feet to push him but could make no headway against the current. Thomas Oliver, Frank Leese and Reginald Homes, youngest brother of Pingle, were on the bank but being unable to swim, could render no assistance whatever; the latter, however, hastened off to some men who were work nearly half-a-mile distant, but by the time they arrived Mr. Percival's strength had failed, and he was well nigh losing his own life in attempting keep Mr. Holmes's head above water, he having a second time seized him by the hair for the purpose. The tide, however, on this morning was so unusually high and swift that all his efforts were unavailing, and slipping from his grasp the body disappeared, and was not recovered for some hours after. The sad event caused quite a sensation in the town, the poor young fellow being full of promise and highly respected. His father for many years has been managing clerk at Messrs. Pinsent and Co, and, being well known and highly respected among a large circle of friends, much sympathy was felt for him for his sad bereavement. The inquest held the same evening, the above facts were deposed, and the jury returned a verdict of "Accidentally drowned."

KINGSTEIGNTON: A Scare: Last Friday night the back windows of baker's premises, and of the Congregational Chapel adjoining, were broken by stones. Mr. Beardon, the owner of the premises, had that day, in common with many others, raised the price of bread, and the idea was at once entertained that some evil-disposed persons did the mischief, in consequence. Mr. Savery Pinsent who takes a great interest in the chapel, took the matter up, and after placing it in the hands of the police, had a reward of £2 offered for information that would lead to the discovery of the perpetrators and their conviction. He also called on all peaceable and law-abiding inhabitants of the village to come forward and testify what they might know on the matter; and, for the future, to do what they could to prevent the occurrence of such wanton mischief, which brings the character of the village into disgrace. The police investigated the matter, and after the most careful scrutiny, arrived at the very feasible conclusion that the price of bread had nothing at all to do with it. At the back the premises in question is an orchard, and evidence was not wanting to show that some of the trees had been shied at with stones to fetch down the apples, and it was the said stones that in their flight had broken the windows. Other parties beside the police subsequently entertained the same opinion, and the excitement consequently has ceased.

Application for a Transfer of License: Mr. Creed, on behalf of Messrs. Pinsent and Co., owners of the Victory Inn, West Teignmouth, which has recently been demolished the Great western Railway Company opening up the tunnel, applied to have the license transferred to a corner house near the site of the old one. Mr. Lewis Galsworthy had occupied the old Victory Inn for about 15 years, and he was to become the tenant of the new house. No complaint had ever been made against the home or the manner in which the business had been conducted. It was not a new license that he asked for, only the transfer from one house that had been demolished under powers which the owner had no control to that of an adjoining house, and he was surprised to find that it was going to be opposed. He called Mr. Chudleigh, who produced the plan of the new premises, and pointed out the superior accommodation over that of the old inn. Mr. Hacker (instructed by Mr. Samuel Churchill, of Teignmouth) opposed the application on behalf the Church England Temperance Society and produced a memorial signed by the Vicars of the two parishes and all the other ministers, and about 150 ratepayers and owners' property against the granting of the license on the grounds its being detrimental to the adjacent property, and to the peace and morals of the inhabitants. He pointed out that there are already 30 licensed houses in Teignmouth to about 7,000 inhabitants, and that consequently no other inn was needed. The Bench, after long consideration, decided to refuse the license.

Newton Abbot: Petty Sessions: Tuesday: Before Admiral Cornish-Bowden (chairman), General Reynell Taylor, and H. E. Brown, D. R. Scratton, and G. B. Ellicombe, Esqrs. The jury lists of most of the parishes in the Division were revised, and the necessary alteration made in instances of over-age and non-residence. Bishopsteignton, Stokeinteignhead, and Haccombe were unrepresented. Messrs. Pinsent and Co., brewers, of Newton Abbot, applied through Mr. W. Creek, solicitor, for the transfer of the license of the Victory Inn, West Teignmouth, which house has been taken down by the Great Western Railway Company in their removal of the tunnel, to the new premises erected near the site of the old inn. It was explained that the tenant for 15 years of the old Victory Inn was Mr. Lewis Galsworthy, who was also to be the tenant of the new premises. No complaint had ever been made against the house, or as to the manner in which the business had been conducted: The application was opposed by Mr. S. Hacker, instructed by Mr. S. Churchill, on behalf of the Church of England Temperance Society. In support of the opposition, a memorial was produced, signed by the Vicars of East and West Teignmouth and about 150 of the inhabitants, on the grounds that the premises were not convenient for the purpose to which it was sought to be put and that there were four other licensed houses in the immediate locality. The Bench refused the application: On the application of Mr. J. B. Tompkins, secretary of the Newton Coffee Tavern Company, a bagatelle license for the coffee tavern was granted.

The Show: The Show was undoubtedly the best, both in point of entries and general excellence, ever held in the town. The poultry made a grand display, and almost every day was well filled. Dorkings, especially, were fully represented, some of the most noted local breeders as well as exhibitors from a distance, sending specimens. In the first class, there were 10 entries. The bird placed first well deserved the honour, as admitted by other exhibitors of in the class. It was, to use the words of a well-known breeder of Dorkings, "The best bird ever seen the West, and points beyond the other prize-takers the same class." The second bird was of wonderful colour, with a good comb; it was, indeed, no other than the Palace cup cockerel, belonging Mr. J. Hebditch, jun., of Stratton, near Ilminster, and will grow into magnificent bird. The third bird was a very good specimen, but much older than the other two. Hens came out strongly. The prize-takers belonged Mr. Pinsent, of Newton Abbott; Mr. Hebditch, Messrs. Newick, of Crewkerne. There was keen competition in the class for any other variety of Dorkings. The first prize-taker, silver grey, was not considered by some judges to be the best bird in the class: the second was a good upstanding bird, which well deserved his place; but the third was rather old bird. In Class 4, a very fine bird, of good colour, and splendid condition, but having sooty feet, was placed first; the second — a cuckoo Dorking, with beautiful white feet — was properly placed; the third, a very large hen, was not good condition. ...

Madras Weekly News: Wednesday 24th May 1882

Criminal Breach of Trust: Before Mr. P. D. Shaw yesterday, Hyath Meah Saib and Hyath Musthan Saib were charged with having between the 18th March and 6th April 1882 committed the offence of criminal breach of trust, in having disposed of, or made away with 8,000 and 9,000 skins, the property of Messrs. Shaw and Winch. It appears that the defendants in November 1880 applied to Messrs. Shaw and Winch for an advance of Rs. 5,000, depositing as security certain immovable property, and agreeing to ship all skins prepared by them at their tannery through Messrs. Shaw and Winch to Messrs. Willis, Rodwell & Co., complainant's agents in London. ... (continues) ...

The defendants are now indebted to the complainants in the sum of about Rs. 25,000. On the 18th March 1882, Mr. Pinsent, one of the partners, in company with Mr. Willis, inspected the tannery and estimated the skins then there at from Rs. 9,000 to 10,000. Finding no skins were being sent in by defendants, Mr. Pinsent went again to the tannery on the 6th April, and found it comparatively empty, and on the 10th April took possession of the tannery, and placed his men in charge. Mr. Norton, instructed by Mr. Short, appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Robert Grant for the defense. Mr. Pinsent was cross examined at some length and the case was adjourned. It was called again today and Mr. Pinsent's examination is not yet concluded ...

This Day's Police: Charges of Stealing Cigars: Wm. Orton (15), Thomas Orton (18), and Andrew Pinsent (19) were charged with stealing yesterday a bundle of cigars, value 2s1d, the property of Thomas Payne, tobacconist, Little Brunswick Street: Mr. T. Wright appeared for the prisoners. Prosecutors stated that about 9.45 the three prisoners came to his house Wm to have their hair cut, and Thomas Orton to be shaved. When they were gone, he missed a bundle of cigars from the shop which he had seen safe half an hour previous to when they came in. He gave information to the police. PC Atkinson arrested the two Ortons at their home last night on the charge of stealing the cigars. He took them to the Woodboy-street police station and accused them of being in the company of another and committing the theft. Thomas Orton said he was not guilty, and Wm. admitted the offence. He afterwards apprehended Pinsent, who made a statement incriminating Wm Orton. Subsequently at the police-station Wm Orton said he had thrown the cigars into the river. Wm Orton pleaded guilty, the other two not guilty. Mr. Wright said with regard to Wm. Orton, he committed an act of folly which he could not divine a reason. The lad admitted that he did take the cigars, and afterwards threw them into the river, but why he (the lad) did such a thing, or what gratification there was in it, he could not conceive. He hoped the Bench would take into consideration the fact that he had not been before Bench previously, and also his youth, and not visit the offence with any severe punishment. As to the other two he trusted the Bench would dismiss the cases against them as they really took no part in the theft. They had all hitherto borne good character, and their Parents occupied respectable positions. Pinsent' father being the employer of the other two. Thomas Orton and Pinsent were discharged, Wm. Orton was fined 40s or 21 days' hard labour, the Bench hoping these proceedings would be a caution to him in the future.

Charge for Marine Insurance: Before Mr. P. D. Shaw, Presidency Magistrate: K. C. P. M Moideen Abdul Mercoir v. Charles Pinsent: The case was called on for the first time on Friday 9th June. Mr. Normandy, instructed by Mr. Robert Grant appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Eardley Norton instructed by Mr. Short of Mr. Champion's office for the defense. Mr. Normandy, in his opening, said that the prosecutor charged Mr. Charles Pinsent of the firm of Messrs. Shaw and winch, with cheating under the following circumstances. Up to June 1881, the prosecutor, who was a skin and hide merchant, had affected his insurance on all shipments in England, through Messrs. Willis and Rodwell in London. Subsequently to that date, owing to the inducements and representations of the defendant, that he could affect the insurances more advantageously to the prosecutor in Madras, the prosecutor has been induced to insure through Messrs. Shaw, and Winch in Madras. About March 1882, the prosecutor came for the first time to learn that Messrs. Shaw and Winch had not, as a matter of fact, paid to the Insurance Company in Madras the various amounts which, in their accounts rendered to the prosecutor, they had represented they had so paid. Therein lay the charge. ... (continues) ... (numerous references to Pinsent in examination and cross examination of witnesses over two pages and near end includes) ...

[Here the Magistrate took down verbatim the following questions from Mr. Norton] - Did you not in the present of Mr. Francis Cripps, Coshan and Charles Pinsent, about the end of June 1881, make an arrangement that the defendant was to charge you an extra percentage of which the amount was not then fixed, for insurances effected by the defendant on goods shipped by you in Madras through Shaw and Winch? No, I did not. I thoroughly understand the question, and I will swear I did not make that arrangement. ...

(later) ... Mr. Norton addressing the Magistrate said Mr. Pinsent was, as yet, beyond his cross-examination of the complainant, but had no opportunity of disclosing the real motives of the prosecution. Those motives are based upon a feeling of retaliation; they have been supported by the most reckless swearing; and they have culminated in gross perjury; I am prepared with the most completed and overwhelming evidence to establish the fact that the complainant was only one of very large number of skin merchants with whose free consent and knowledge Mr. Pinsent was entitled by specific arrangement to charge a half per cent. Upon insurance effected by him upon all shipments. I was prepared so conclusively to establish my case, and to refute the statements of the complainant that would have asked your Worship for sanction to prosecute the latter for perjury. The credit and good name of a merchant are of so inestimable value to him that I ask your Worship, in dismissing the complaint, to add such an expression of opinion with regard to the conduct of the complaint as may in some measure mitigate the scandal and the disgrace which the more ventilation of such a charge must necessarily inflict upon Mr. Pinsent. His Worship repeated his opinion that Mr. Pinsent had been guilty of no deception, and the accused was discharged.

The teapot was inscribed as follows: "Presented with a coffee service, by the members of the School Board and ratepayers of Christow and Doddiscombeleigh, to Mr. Henry Pinsent, for his valuable services as honorary clerk for a period extending over four years," In the absence of the Chairman (the Rev. J. Buckingham) from ill-health, the Vice-chairman (Mr. G. Grant) was invited to make the presentation. He said the duty he had to perform was a most agreeable one, and he felt sure that his colleagues and neighbours felt much pleasure also by the readiness with which they had subscribed to the fund and by their presence on that interesting occasion. With sincere gratification he asked Mr. Pinsent to accept the testimonial, in appreciation of his able, zealous, valuable, and gratuitous service to the Board. Mr. Pinsent in a few well-chosen remarks acknowledged the compliment. It afforded him much pleasure, he said, to be a member of a Board that had worked so harmoniously. He had always received great kindness and assistance from the worthy Chairman, and it was to him a sincere satisfaction to have been enabled to render the services he had. Mr. Pinsent leaves the neighbourhood carrying with him the esteem and good wishes of all who know him.

The South Devon Hunt: In consequence of Mr. F. R. Hemming, of Market Drayton, Shropshire, having failed to pay Mr. A. F. Ross, formerly master of this hunt, for his pack of hounds, in accordance with an agreement, and having left the county without fulfilling his engagement, the South Devon Country is now left without a master. A meeting of the members of the Hunt was therefore held at the Globe Hotel, Newton Abbot, on Wednesday evening, Mr. P. Symons presiding. The Hon. Sec. (Mr. R. M. Codner) tendered his resignation. It was accepted. Mr. J. Rendell proposed, and Mr. J. B. Pincen seconded, that the accounts of the Hunt should be balanced and wound up. This was agreed to. It was decided that those who had hunted with Mr. Ross should be asked to subscribe towards making up the loss he had sustained through having sold his hounds at auction for £40, the price Mr. Hemming agreeing to pay him for them being £180. A vote of thanks was then passed to Mr. R. M. Codner for the service he had rendered the hunt during the time he was hon. secretary, after which the meeting terminated.

The Boiler Explosion in Birmingham: Adjourned Inquest: This Day: The Engineer Committed for Man-slaughter: This morning the resumed inquest was opened the Coroner's Court, Mr. H. Hawkes (coroner), on the bodies of the three men, William Mewis, Henry Denston, and Francis George Wilkins, who were killed by the explosion of a boiler at the Stephenson Tube Works, Liverpool Street, on the 9th inst. Mr. Hugo Young (instructed by Messrs. Saunders, Smith, and Parish) watched the proceedings on behalf of Mr. Wm. Everitt, the owner of the tube works, who also trades as Allen Eyerritt and Sons, at the Kingston Metal Works. Mr. Pinsent represented Mr. Mosedale, the chief engineer of the works; Mr. Burton represented the relatives and friends of Wilkins; and Mr. Prior, Government inspector under the Factory Acts, also attended. — The depositions of the witnesses who the opening of the inquest identified the bodies of the deceased men having been read over, Mr. Hugo Young said wished to mention that since the enquiry was adjourned gentleman, who stated that he was one of the jury - had called at the manufactory and asked to examine the works. Mr. Everitt, having given instructions that no one should be admitted unless he had an order from the coroner, the gentleman, who had no such order, was refused admission. (long discussion of the state of the boiler before the explosion) ... The coroner, in his remarks to the jury said it was not necessary for him to say anything as the cause of death. There was not the slightest doubt that an explosion had taken place, at which the men lost their lives. What they had to consider was how that explosion occurred. There were four people who had to do with the condition of the boiler, Mr. Everitt, the chief engineer Dangerfield, the foreman fitter, and the deceased, Mewis. What they had to decide upon was whether it was through the culpable negligence of either of these that the disaster happened. ... (discussion of relative culpability) ...

The jury, after about 10 minute's consideration, returned a verdict to the effect that the three deceased men met their deaths through the culpable negligence of the chief engineer, Mosedale. Mr. Everitt also was censured for not stopping the boiler after it had been reported unsafe. The coroner: That is a verdict of manslaughter against Mosedale, whom I now commit to take his trial on the charge at the Warwick Assizes. Mr. Pinesnt asked the coroner to admit Mosedale to bail. The coroner said he could not very well fix the amount now. It could be better fixed when the accused was brought before the magistrates. Mr. Pinsent said he did not want his client to be taken into custody. The coroner said he was bound to issue his warrant. The Chief of Police could execute it as he thought proper.

Action Against a Dartmouth Corn Merchant: At the Churston County Court, yesterday, before Mr. S. S. Underhay, Deputy Judge, the Great Western Railway Company sued Mr. W. Ash Hawke, corn and manure merchant, of Dartmouth for £14 15s for the carriage of goods. This was a jury case. The Hon. Alfred Littleton, barrister of the Oxford Circuit, instructed Mr. R. R. Nelson of London, and Messrs. Whiteford and Bennett, appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. H. Square, Solicitor of Dartmouth, for the defendant. The Hon. Mr. Littleton, in mentioning the plaintiff's case, said when they conveyed goods for parties whom they recognised "as men of substance", they sometimes deviated from the ordinary course by giving credit. The plaintiffs had done so in this instance. An arrangement of this kind had existed between the plaintiffs and the defendant from January 1877, till the end of March 1882. There was then due £14 15s and it was in respect of that claim the present action was brought. He then called Mr. Geo. Rowe, foreman the Goods Department, Kingswear, who proved by the company's books the debt due for the delivery of goods from time to time. For the defence a counterclaim for £39 8s was made, arising from loss through damage occasioned to goods in their transit (etc.) The defendant was examined at considerable length in respect of these alleged damages. The first loss he sustained he said was in December 1880, when he purchased a large quantity of barley from a Mr. Petherbridge of Dittisham. It was delivered in barges at Kingswear perfectly safe, but when re-transmitted over the plaintiff's line to Mr. Pinsent, brewer, of Newton, to whom he had sold it; it was found to be wet, and consequently Mr. Pinsent refused take it. He had to store it at Newton, and he considered he sustained a loss of £3. The barley got wet in the transit over the plaintiff's line. He also considered he sustained a similar loss through some barley meal which was allowed to get wet in transit over the Great Western Railway from Staverton to Newton. Another loss of £1 occurred when he had some brown acid sent him from Plymouth. He had the liquid sent in a truck with some bags of manure, and one of the carboys broke and the acid it contained did considerable damage to the bags. — The Hon. Mr. Littleton reminded his Honour that the defendant had no right to convey the acid in the same truck as contained his manure, and, therefore, under no circumstances could he have the slightest pretension to a claim. — The defendant was proceeding to show other losses he had sustained in the transit of goods when his Honour inquired of his solicitor if was prepared to show wilful damage on the part of the company. — Mr. Square said it could prove damage arose through the defective state of the tarpaulin. — His Honour: That will not prove wilful damage or misconduct. — The Hon. Mr. Littleton said, according to Mr. Square's own showing, the worst he could prove against his clients would be neglect, which, of course, as the defendant had the goods conveyed at his own risk, availed nothing. — His Honour (to Mr. Square): I don't see how you can support your counterclaim under any circumstances. — The defendant said he had received a letter from Mr. Paddon, station master at Kingswear, offered to make an abatement of £1 odd, in respect the carriage of the acid, the charge of which he (the defendant) had said was excessive, — The Hon. Mr. Littleton said that would not compromise the company. — His Honour said it would be useless to go on with the case any further. He therefore directed the jury to return a verdict for the plaintiffs for the amount claimed, and to disallow the defendant's counterclaim — The jury returned a verdict accordingly, and Honour allowed the plaintiffs' costs.

Exeter and Plymouth Gazette: Friday 2nd March 1883

Action by the Great Western Railway Company: At the Churston County Court on Monday, before Mr. S. S. Underhay, Deputy-Judge, and a jury, an action was brought by the Great Western Railway Company against Mr. W. A. Hawke, merchant, of Dartmouth, to recover the sum of £14 15s for carriage of goods consigned to him ... (detailed discussion) ... in support of the counterclaim, Mr. Hawke stated that during 1880 a large quantity of barley which he had purchased was damaged by wet while being sent in railway-trucks to Newton Abbot to Mr. Pinsent, maltster, of that town, to whom it had been sold, but who refused to receive it. It consequently, had to be sold at a loss. Forty sacks of barley meal were also damaged by wet transit from Staverton to Kingswear, and thence to Newton, in consequence of which an allowance of £3 had to be made to the person to whom the goods were consigned.

Hinckley News: Saturday 4th August 1883

Arthur Potterton, aged 12 years, was charged with stealing a pocket-knife, the property of John Pinsent, aged 13 years. The lads were at the public baths on Saturday, and when Pinsent went to dress, he missed his knife from his trousers pocket. Finding Potterton in possession of it he charged him with stealing the knife, an accusation which he stoutly denied, and at first alleged that another boy had taken it and given it to him. He afterwards said that he found the knife on the floor, and so many lads laid claim to it that he decided to keep it until he could find the rightful owner. The defendant now repeated this statement to the Bench relying upon it as his defence. — The Magistrates, however, considered he was guilty of taking the knife, and that for a boy he had shown considerable ingenuity in his defence. They did not desire to convict him, on account of the previous good character which he received from a tradesman by whom he had been employed as errand boy and dismissed him on his parents undertaking to chastise him for the offence.

Alleged Frauds under the Debtors Act: Yesterday, at the Birmingham Police Court-before Messrs. Deykin and Chesshire: - James Jones (48), draper residing at Lichfield Road, Sutton Coldfield, and who lately carried on business at 6, Steelhouse Lane; 9 ½ High Street, 154, Ashted Row; 260, Broad Street; 29, Parade; and Newtown Row, was charged, on a warrant, with offences under the Debtors Act. Mr. Pinsent (Barlow, Smith, and Pinsent) appeared for the prosecution and Mr. Nathan (instructed by Mr. R. Taylor) for the prisoner. Mr. Pinsent applied for a remand until next week. The prosecution had been commenced by order of the Treasury, and the prisoner was charged with offences under the Debtors Act committed immediately prior to filing his petition for liquidation on the 11th of July last. Mr. Nathan said it was only reasonable that the remand should be granted. He wished the remand to be granted till someday next week, on the understanding that a fresh remand till the following week would then be given, so that the learned Stipendiary or Mr. Hill might be present. The magistrates granted a remand until Tuesday next, when a further remand for a week will be made. Mr. Nathan applied for bail. Mr. Pinsent hoped that bail for a substantial sum would be required. The prisoner's debts amounted to £11,701. 6s. 2d and his assets were £4,670. 18s. 5d, so that there was a deficiency of £7,000: Of that deficiency, there was £2,500 entirely unaccounted for. Mr. Nathan said the prisoner did not admit that the deficiency unaccounted for was anything like £2,500, but he did not object to substantial bail; the man "had not a feather to fly with," but his friends would help him. Bench fixed the bail at £500 for the prisoner, and two sureties of £250 each.

Extraordinary Forgeries on Birmingham Banks: As reported in the Daily Post yesterday, Albert Westbury, a saddler, carrying on business at 6 Easy Row, was arrested on the previous evening on a charge of forgery. Yesterday morning the accused was brought up at the Birmingham Police Court before Mr. T. C. S. Kynersley, charged with forging the acceptances of two bills of exchange and uttering the same at the Birmingham and Midland Bank. The prisoner was not charged with forging the signature to a cheque as had been reported but with forging the acceptance to a bill of exchange. Mr. Pinsent was there representing the Worcester City and County Bank, and would prefer a similar charge against the prisoner ...

Mr. Pinsent said he appeared for the Worcester City and County Bank and had two forged acceptances presented by the prisoner which he was prepared to go on with. Mr. Beale said he had two bills that he could prove were forgeries – one for £48 the other for £45: Mr. Pinsent said his were for similar amounts. Prisoner was remanded till Monday and on the application of Mr. Burton, was admitted to bail, himself in £700 and two sureties of £350 each. ...

Steer did not attend, and it was stated that he was gone to Bristol to work on the Severn Tunnel. William Lock stated that the defendants were in his master's plantation watching a rabbit burrow when he saw them. After watching them for some time he made a movement that disturbed them, and they ran away. Steer threw away a ferret bag, which the witness picked up and he then went to the burrow and took out the ferret produced, and also a rabbit ... (defense of mistaken identity) ... John Pinsent of Bovey, who had been working at the Severn Tunnel, was at his lodgings when Steer arrived about half past eight on Tuesday night. He left to come back to Bovey on Friday morning, and Steer was still there; he had not been served with a summons. The Bench thought the plea of mistaken identity fully established and dismissed the case. Mr. Templar applied under the circumstances that the defendants should be allowed his costs for the witnesses. This was granted – 12s being allowed.

Death of Mrs. Pinsent: Last evening Mrs. Pinsent, wife of Mr. J. Pinsent, junr. Tea dealer, of Queen Street, Newton Abbot died somewhat suddenly at their private residence in Wolborough Hill. The deceased was in the town transacting business in the middle of the day, and it is stated that her husband went for a drive in the afternoon, and on his return found her dead. Deceased was Mr. Pinsent's second wife, his first having been killed by a carriage accident some four or five years ago, and by whom he has one daughter. The present deceased leaves two infant children. Full particulars will no doubt be stated at the inquest.

Shocking Suicide at Newton Abbot: The Inquest Yesterday: An inquest was held on Mrs. Pinsent's body on Friday afternoon—Mr. Thomas May said: I reside at Southford, Staverton, I identified the body of Jane Pinsent, she is my sister. I believe she is thirty-seven years old, and the wife of John Ball Pinsent. I saw her yesterday afternoon; she was still alive, but unconscious. I came to Newton between four and five yesterday, on a little matter of business; came straight to the house from the station and walked into the house. My wife came with me on a friendly business matter to my mother (as I am trustee under a marriage settlement), and the servant was sent up to ask Mrs. Pinsent to come downstairs. She was in her own bedroom. She did not reply, as she had locked herself in. I tried to force the door open, but could not, and we then got a ladder outside, and had to get in by the window. This was about 4.40 p.m. I then saw her fully dressed lying on the bed. I thought she had broken a blood vessel. I entered the room, and the first thing I did was to unlock the door and let the servants in, who were on the outside waiting. On examining Mrs. Pinsent. I thought she had taken laudanum. She was lying on the bed on her back, with her mouth open. She was breathing heavily when I saw her first, and there was a gurgling in the throat. I should think she lived ten minutes after I first saw her. I sent for brandy. I examined the room, and found a blue glass bottle as the mantelpiece, with a stopper in it. The bottle was produced. From what I know of the deceased, she has always lived on good terms with her mother and her husband. She had spent more than her income before she was married, and I had spoken to her about it. This was a thing she had done recently (spent more than her income), but it was not a serious matter. not enough to prey on her mind, or to induce her to take her life. I don't know if she had been troubled about anything. Mary Ann Couch, a domestic servant in the employ of Mrs. Pinsent, said that yesterday the deceased, her husband, and others sat down to dinner together. Deceased was nursing her baby on the landing before the witness went out after she had her dinner. She did not see her mistress return, but when Mr. and Mrs. May, of Staverton, came, she went to the deceased's bedroom door and told her, and she said she would be down in a minute. She looked out of the door and was rather pale. Some short time after they arrived, Mr. May went to the room and could not get access. He then got a ladder and entered the room. Witness then fetched a doctor. Ever since she had been in her present situation, she had witnessed no unpleasantness between Mr. and Mrs. Pinsent, or Mrs. Pinsent and her mother. Mr. John Ball Pinsent, the husband of the deceased, said, I live in Buckland and I am a wine merchant. The deceased was my wife. I dined alone yesterday between one and two. Before I left in the morning, at nine o'clock, to go to my business in Queen-Street, I left her in her usual health. She was the same when I came home to dinner. We sat down together, and we made a very good dinner. I don't know who my wife had written a letter to. Recently she had been complaining of a cold in her stomach. She had the cholic some time ago. She has shown a strangeness of late, and went to consult Dr. Cann, of Dawlish, about a fortnight ago. Dr. Cann had attended her for years. I knew nothing at all about the business. Mr. May came to see her. She had not mentioned to me the subject of her having overdrawn her account at the bank. I can throw no light at all upon the subject. Ann Nathan, cook, in the employ of Mrs. Pinsent said: I was at dinner yesterday, and went directly over to the stairs and saw Mrs. Pinsent nursing the baby in the nursery. She let me have the baby shortly after three, and kissed it, and went in the bedroom and locked herself in. I never saw her again until Mr. May broke into the room and had her lifted up from the bed. Several other witnesses were examined, including Dr. Scott, a chemist of Newton Abbot, and others. The Jury returned a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Pinsent destroyed herself whilst in an unsound state of mind.

Suicide of a Lady at Newton: A melancholy case of suicide occurred on Thursday at Newton Abbot, Mrs. Pinsent, the wife of Mr. J. P. Pinsent (sic), of Buckland, Wolborough-hill, destroying herself by taking poison. The deceased was about 30 years of age and was in her usual health when Mr. Pinsent left his residence at about three o'clock in the afternoon, promising to be home to tea at half past five. In the meantime, Mr. May, a brother of Mrs Pinsent, arrived with his wife on a visit, and on Mrs. Pinsent being called, no answer was received, and an entrance had to be forced into her bedroom. Mrs Pinsent was then found to be dead; she, having obtained some poison in a bottle, and taken part of it. Dr. Soott was immediately sent for, but his services were, of course, unavailable. No cause whatever can be given for the sad act, Mrs. was in a perfect state of health and on the most happy terms with her relatives. Profound sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Pinsent's mother (who resides with her). A distressing feature in connection with the sad tragedy is that Mr Pinsent's first wife met her death by accident a few years since.

Suicide By Poison at Newton Abbot: Considerable excitement was created in Newton on Thursday evening on it becoming known that Mrs. Pinsent, wife of Mr. J. B. Pinsent, junr., residing at Buckland House, on Wolborough Hill had committed suicide by poisoning herself. Yesterday afternoon an inquiry into the circumstances of the event was held before Mr. Sidney Hacker, Coroner, and a respectable jury, of whom Mr. W. Roberts was chosen foreman, when the following evidence was adduced: Mr. Thomas May, of Southport, Staverton, said the deceased was his sister, and in the 38th year of her age. He was her trustee under the marriage settlement, and came over the previous day, about 4 p.m. to see her on a little matter of business. His wife came with him, and when they arrived, he asked of the servant if Mrs. Pinsent was in and was answered "Yes". They went first into the dining room. His mother was there, having lived with his sister ever since her marriage to Mr. Pinsent. They then adjourned to the drawing room, where he told his mother what business he had come upon, which in effect was that his sister had overdrawn her account at the bank, and he was there at the banker's request. His mother, however, had made it right with the bank, and there was nothing to dread on that account. The servant was sent upstairs to tell Mrs. Pinsent of Mr. and Mrs. May's arrival. She saw her at her bedroom door having her hand on the knob and said she would be down in a minute or two, but not coming, the servant was sent up again, and then she found the door locked on the inside and received no reply. Upon that they all became frightened, and tried to force the door, but were unable to do so. After some difficulty they procured a ladder, and witness got into the room by the window and found his sister lying on the bed. He unlocked the door and the servants, and his wife entered. They lifted his sister up and shook her. He saw dark stains each side of her mouth. She was then breathing heavily and gurgling in the throat but was quite unconscious. She was not at all rigid, but perfectly limp. Tried every means to restore her to consciousness but could not. He fancied she lived about ten minutes after he got into the room. Beyond a dropping of the jaw, there was nothing peculiar in her appearance. There was a blue glass bottle on the chimney pieces labelled "Hydrocyanic, Scheele's strength Poison," but there was not more than a drop or so of anything in it. As far as he knew, his sister, her husband and mother lived on very good terms with each other. She had been living beyond her income, but he didn't know that it preyed on her mind at all. She had done so once before, and he remonstrated with her about it. The matter he came about now was not at all serious and was amicably arranged. She was not aware of his coming but might have expected him as he had been there once before this week to see her, but did not as she was out. His sister was of peculiar temperament, but her husband was kindness itself to her. Nothing of the kind had ever occurred in the family before, his predecessors having lived to a good old age. Mary Ann Couch said she had lived as a servant with Mrs. Pinsent for two months. Her mistress was out the previous day both before and after dinner – the latter time about three o'clock, she, having previously written a letter. There was nothing unusual that occurred at the dinner table, and her mistress seemed to make a hearty dinner. The witness then corroborated Mr. May's evidence, and added that Mr. May entered the room, as before stated, she ran away for a doctor. She cleaned her mistress's bedroom, but she never saw the bottle produced before. She had never seen any unpleasantness between Mr. and Mrs. Pinsent or Mrs. May. John B. Pinsent, husband of the deceased, and who gave his evidence under considerable emotion, said they dined at their usual times the previous day. Nothing unpleasant occurred. He left about five minutes to three; his wife was then upstairs nursing the baby. She had shown no difference in her manner lately. They had been married three and a half years. There was nothing on her mind at all that he knew of, and he knew nothing whatsoever of the business Mr. May came upon. His wife had not mentioned to him the subject of having overdrawn her account at the Bank. He knew nothing whatsoever that would throw any light on the matter. He went for a drive in the afternoon with a friend promising to be back to tea. Ann Nathan, nurse, said she had frequently heard her mistress complain of having had very sleepless nights and on one occasion recently she heard her say she thought she would take a dose of poison, but didn't think she meant it. Her reason for saying it was on account of her sleeplessness. Dr. Scott said the deceased was a patient of his. He was sent for the previous night and arrived about six o'clock. Saw deceased lying on her back on the bed apparently dead, and upon examination she appeared to have been so for some time. Mr. May told him she had taken poison, and pointed to the bottle produced, which was then standing on the mantle-piece. Prussic acid of Scheele's strength was about double the ordinary strength. It was an ounce bottle, and there was only a drop or so remaining in it. Deceased had all the appearance of poisoning by prussic acid: Had made a postmortem examination of the body. On opening her stomach, he could detect the smell of prussic acid quite strongly, and was certain death resulted from that poison. It never struck him that she was insane at all, but she was very reserved in her manner, with a peculiar indifference to everything about her. John Henry Bibbings, chemist of Queen Street, said the deceased had been a customer of his for five years. The bottle produced came from his shop; it was supplied to Mrs. Pinsent about half-past eleven on Wednesday morning. Having previously purchased some other articles, she said someone made her a present of a fancy dog, but she didn't care about it and should like to poison it, and asked for a little prussic acid for the purpose. Witness asked her if he could safely trust her with it. She smiled at his remark and said she would not let it out of her hands. It was not more than a drachm, which he gave her, which was quite sufficient to kill a dog. He had not entered the sale in his book as several people came in at the time and, having known Mrs. Pinsent for such a long period. His last words to her, as she left the shop, were that of caution. The coroner reminded him of the formalities to be observed in the sale of poisons and the penalty he was subject to for non-compliance therewith. Mr. Bibbings said he was aware of it, and it should never occur again. After a short deliberation the jury returned a verdict that the deceased poisoned herself during a fit of temporary insanity. They also, through the coroner, gave Mr. Bibbings a word of caution as to how he dispensed poison in the future. Mr. Bibbings repeated his promise that it should not occur again.

THE ALLEGED CHILD MURDER AT NEWTON ABBOT: INQUEST AND COMMITTAL: An inquest on the body of Jessie Loveridge, the infant daughter of George and Rebecca Loveridge, of Kingsteignton was held the Courtenay-street Hall, Newton Abbot, on Tuesday morning. Mr. R. G. Templer watched the inquiry on behalf of Mrs. Loveridge. Evidence was given to show that on Friday night the mother of the deceased, Rebecca Loveridge, was seen on Kingsteignton road in a very excited state, and that she afterwards went to the van of a gypsy named Small, who noticed her condition and went in search of the husband. On Loveridge entering the van his wife told him that she had drowned the baby and had also attempted to drown herself, but her clothes kept her afloat. The woman said that she had drowned her child because she was mad. The doctor's evidence was to the effect that the child had come by its death by drowning, and he added that the fact of the prisoner's father having committed suicide would possibly act as an impulse for her to attempt similar act. It was, in fact, very probable that the woman was suffering from suicidal mania. Prisoner had told the witness that she made two attempts to drown herself but had failed. She had also stated that she remembered bringing her child out of the water the first time she threw herself in. The jury, after some deliberation, returned a verdict of "wilful Murder" against the prisoner, who was subsequently brought before the Magistrates. The witnesses repeated their evidence given at the inquest, and Mr. Templer, on behalf of the prisoner, called Richard Ward, of Kingsteignton, who deposed that Loveridge called his wife a ----- lazy wretch on Friday morning, and also kicked her. Witness went away and returned at 12.30, and Loveridge came home about one o'clock, when his wife prepared bran-mash for the horse. Loveridge said "You, ----- what did you get that for?" Husband and wife went into the stable, and the witness heard a hard slap. Prisoner subsequently came from the stable and said that her husband had slapped her in the face. Mrs. Loveridge soon afterwards referred to Mrs. Pinsent's death and added that it would be no difference if she did the same as they all treated her badly. The Bench then committed the prisoner for trial at the next Assizes. On the application of Mr. Templer, a communication was ordered to be made to the prison authorities as to the prisoner's delicate state of health.

Sergt. Nicholls proved the charge. Defendant set up the same plea in defence he did before the Coroner, viz: that having known Mrs. Pinsent as a customer for five years, and she stating that she only wanted a small quantity to poison a dog, he was thrown off his guard, although he repeatedly cautioned her not to let anyone else have the handling of it, which she promised faithfully to attend to, besides which he was very busy at the time that he let her have it. He submitted that if it had been entered it would not have prevented what unfortunately occurred. Dundee Evening Telegraph: Saturday 20th September 1884

The Right of Property in “Round” Seals: — A judgment of considerable importance in regard to the right of property in seals which have been killed but not taken possession of has been given in the Supreme Court of Newfoundland. Mr. Power, the commander the steamer Narwhal, belonging to the Dundee Sealing and Whaling Company, and Mr. Kennedy, the commander of the steamer Vanguard, raised cross actions against each other to recover the value of some thousands of seals said to have been wrongfully taken at the last spring’s seal fishery. The cases were tried before the Chief Justice. In both of them the jury decided in favour of Kennedy, and the second action he was found entitled to £360. This mainly turned upon the appropriation, as was alleged, of “round” seals. The cases were taken on appeal before the Supreme Court on the question of law, and there Mr. Justice Pinsent was of opinion that there should be new trials unless Kennedy consented to reduce the verdict to at least the sum of £24. Parties have consented to settle out of Court on the basis of the terms of this Judge’s opinion, and it has been published in the Royal Gazette, not as the authoritative judgment of the full Court, but only as that of the Judge himself. In this opinion it is said: — “I am of opinion that no right of property is acquired by the mere indiscriminate slaughter of seals; that it would be monstrous for the law to support a claim of right to scattered round seals on the part of ships the crews which distribute themselves over an area of some miles, and for the purpose of preventing competition and anticipating the arrival and active participation of others in the fruits of the icefields kill as they go with the blow of gaff, taking no heed to collect and pan and mark their spoil, reserving all care in these respects until, as they believe or profess and, in this case, assert, they have left no accessible seals alive. The evil becomes aggravated when more crews than one contribute to the confusion that must necessarily arise from so reprehensible a practice, which is open to the further most serious objections that seals deteriorate from being left to harden and freeze upon the ice before “sculping,” and that large numbers are forever lost to the common stock. I admit the general proposition that property may be acquired and retained in “round seals”, as well as “sculpted seals,” and by similar means; but I hold that the killing must be accomplished by possession, and that when the next comer finds the body of a seal or bodies of seals on the ice without any accompanying indicia of property, the man who claims as of right against him must be in position then and there to assert his right property, to point to the specific seals as his own or those of his fellows, and to exercise corporal control over them, unless he is resisted by force or deterred by threats of violence. Except under such circumstances, I am of opinion that the killer must be held to have left or abandoned the dead round seals to the neat finder who shall possess himself of them.

Madras: Excitement Among Native Merchants: The High Court was on Thursday last the scene of great excitement, in consequence, as it is believed, of a rumour as to the financial position of the firm of Messrs. Shaw and Winch, merchants of Madras. Seven injunction-suits were on that day filed against the firm – one by Messrs. Branson and Branson, on behalf of Kondia Chetty, an indigo merchant, one of Messrs. Grant and Laing, on behalf of one Baliah Chetty, also an indigo merchant, and five by Messrs. Grant and Short on behalf of five skin merchants viz. Wallasah Cassin Saib, Shumshooden Khan, Khaleel Lutchmacanthan Chetty, Amheooden Saib, and another. From the plaints and affidavits read in court it would appear that two Mahomedans named Hyath Meah and Hyath Mutban Saib, who were a short time ago prosecuted by Messrs. Shaw and Winch in the Presidency Magistrate' court, Black Town, on charges of cheating and criminal breach of trust, arranged shortly after the termination of the police proceedings, to renew their business dealings with the said firm and gradually pay off their debt, with the aid of future advances that Messrs. Shaw and Winch had agreed to pay. Between the 9th and 15th instant the several plaintiffs were induced to bring in considerable quantities of indigo and skins upon a promise that they would be paid for the same upon the skins and indigo being weighed, counted, and delivered, the 17th instant, finding that payment was being delayed, the several plaintiffs, together with a large number of other merchants, proceeded to the offices of Messrs.

Shaw and Winch and insisted upon either being paid immediately the sums respectively due to them, or having the goods returned. The police were called in to prevent the merchants from taking forcible possession of any property. Great excitement prevailed during the greater part of Wednesday-night, during which time all of the goods in the godowns of the firm of Messrs. Shaw and Winch were taken possession of by the Agra Bank, which was represented by Messrs. Leslie and Blackall. Messrs. Pinsent, Stiven, T. B. Spark, J. R. Demonstration: Great Procession: Great Success: The great demonstration which took place on Saturday in the capital of the County, in support of the Extension of the Franchise, will long be remembered by those who had the privilege of taking part in the proceedings and of witnessing its remarkable success. The large muster of well-dressed persons from all the principal towns of Devonshire, their march four deep, shoulder to shoulder, in a compact procession, the head of which was entering St. Sidwell's at the same moment as the rear of the column came around from the Bonhay Road into Fore Street, the order which distinguished the movement through the day, the earnestness shown by the demonstrators, these circumstances could not fail to impress everyone and to win respect from opponents as well as friends. That the county leaders of the Liberal Party should be present was of course only natural, but tradesmen, mechanics and others mustered in their thousands ...

The Bovey Tracey detachment, nearly 100 strong, came to Exeter in breaks and had the honour of being the first to move the city with the sound of their music, their band playing lively tunes as they drove up through Fore-street at noon. In the procession they were preceded by a fine banner inscribed "Bovey Tracey Liberal Association" and then came the band; next a banner inscribed "The Franchise is Our Right" and another "Willing or Unwilling – Mend or End" In addition there were a couple of large flags ... among those present were ... High Court: Thursday: Before Mr. Justice Kernan: The Injunction Suits Against Messrs. Shaw and Winch: the eight injunction suits against Messrs. Shaw and Winch, by eight native merchants, dealers in skins and indigo, came on for settlement of issues before Mr. Justice Kernan, at the High Court, yesterday. The court was crowded with parties interested in the suits and no small amount of excitement was exhibited throughout. The first suit was by one Baliah Chetty, against Mr. Pinsent, Mr. R. E. Cripps and the Agra Bank. ...

The plaintiff sued in respect of 100 baskets of indigo, valued at about Rs. 15,000. On the 4th September 76 baskets belonging to the plaintiff were conveyed to the godown of the first defendant, and on the 13th September the remaining 24 baskets were conveyed thither. These were to be inspected, weighed and payment to be made before delivery. The goods were to remain the property of the plaintiff till payment had been mad for it, and the plaintiff had his own lock on the godown door. These goods had never been paid for. Plaintiff therefore sought to recover the goods and compensation for the time he had been kept out of his property. The first defendant put in a written statement in which he stated that he had no dealings with the plaintiff, directly or indirectly. He received the goods from Hyath Meah and Co., who had received an advance of money from him, after he had inspected the goods. He denied all knowledge of the second defendant having entered into any negotiations for the goods on his account, and the second defendant did not act as his dubash, and he knew of no claims on the goods until 17th September, when he received a note of demand from the plaintiff, through his attorney, Messrs. Grant and Laing. The keys of his godowns were handed over to the Agra Bank every evening, as they had a lien on the goods, having given this defendant an advance of payment for the same. The second defendant admitted that he entered into these negotiations as the dubash of Messrs. Shaw and winch, and he did not personally undertake to pay for the goods

The Coming of Age of Prince Edward: The Festivities at Sandringham: (by Telegraph from our correspondents): Sandringham, Thursday Morning: The programme of today's proceedings includes, beside the presentation of addresses from the corporations of Norwich, Lynn and Cambridge, and from the Grammar School of Lynn, entertainment, for all the working men on the estate and their wives, Sanger's Circus – the elephants and camels belonging to which being lodged in the villages round considerably astonished the rustics last night, and a dinner to everyone employed on the Prince's property ...

Lynn and every village around is full of people, besides the number of strangers domiciled in every Norfolk country seat. One family arrived yesterday from Cornwall, and a gallant colonel, living ten miles the other side of Norwich is going to drive his wife and two daughters fifty five miles tonight. The difficulty of getting accommodation for the guests is however, nothing compared with that of finding stabling for the horses. Tickets have been issued to the guests for their horses so far as the Royal Stables and those of the neighbouring farms will afford accommodation, but there will still be many unable to find shelter. The scene in the new ballroom will be one of surprising interest. Besides the house party, the high sheriff, the Lord-Lieutenant, the Norfolk members, and the clergy and the country gentry, with their ladies, there will be the officers of the 4th Hussar stationed at Norwich and of the Prince of Wales's Own Norfolk Artillery Militia; while the University will be represented by two heads of houses, the Masters of Magdalen and Caius and the vice-masters of Trinity. From the District of Newfoundland will be present Judge Pinsent and Mrs. Pinsent, and among others honoured with invitations besides Norfolk people are Lord Rendlesham, Miss Thelluson, Lord Justice and Lady Lindley, Lady Augustus Hervey, the Duke and Duchess De Marino, Lord Wesbury ...

Application for the Release of Mr. Pinsent: Mr. C. P. T. Pinsent, of the firm of Messrs. He was taken before Mr. Justice Hutchins, at His Lordship's house, where he was released on Mr. Champion's bail. On Monday an application was made by Mr. Champion for the release of Mr. Pinsent on bail. The application was adjourned till today, when it was resumed before Mr. Justice Kernan. Mr. Champion said that his client was about to file a bond of all his assets and liabilities under section 336. Mr. Reddy Branson appeared for the plaintiff and opposed the application. His Lordship said that the Section of the Civil Procedure Code under which Mr. Champion moved was not applicable. The High Court was a Court of Bankruptcy and was governed by an English statute. Mr. Branson said that if Mr. Pinsent were sent to jail the money would soon be forthcoming. He considered that if the case was frequently adjourned it would frustrate the ends of justice. Mr. Champion said that a trust deed had been made, and several, though not all the creditors had signed it. His Lordship said that he remembered having read a decision about the inapplicability of the section in this case somewhere. He would ask the Reporter to look up this decision and would in the meanwhile consult the Chief Justice on the point. The application stands over till Friday next.

The County Representation: Mr. Seale-Hayne at Kingsteignton: A meeting of Liberals of Kingsteignton and district was held at the National Schoolroom on Tuesday evening for the purpose of supporting the candidature of Mr. Seale Hayne, and for forming branch of the Liberal Association. Lord Clifford presided ...

Mr. Seale-Hayne, who met with a cordial reception said he was afraid should signalise his first visit to Kingsteignton by making rather dry speech, but the fact was they had before them in that constituency a rather dry question — should they continue in the course of Trade which they had attained their present prosperity or were they follow the advice of the Hon. member for Poole — (laughter) — and return to Protection. ...

Mr. Knowles proposed, and Mr. Goddard seconded "That this meeting having heard the address of Mr. Seale-Hayne pledges itself to use the utmost endeavours to retain him as member for the proposed Teignbridge Division". Rev. Anson-Cartwright, in stirring speech, supported the resolution, which was carried amid acclamation. Mr. Plumtree proposed, and Mr. Foot seconded, "That a parochial Liberal Association be formed in Kingsteignton as branch of the Teignbridge Liberal Association," and that the following gentlemen be appointed officers: —President, Right Hon. London Daily Chronicle: Wednesday 15th April 1885

The Marquis of Lorne on Newfoundland: The Marquis of Lorne presided at a meeting of the Royal Colonial Institute, at the Westminster Palace Hotel, last night, when a paper entitled, "Newfoundland—Our Oldest Colony," was read by the Hon. Mr. Justice Pinsent, D.C.L. Among those present were Sir Saul and Lady Samuel, Lady Clara Rayleigh, the Hon. J. Strutt, the Hon.

J. C. Bray (South Australia), the Hon. J. U. Burke (Jamaica), Mr. Cropper, M.P., Dr. Hartley, V.C. (Cape Colony), Mr. G. Molineux, Mr. H. W. Freeland, Mr. J. D. Wood, Mr. F. B. Labilliere, Mr. Frederick Young (hon. sec.), and Mr. J. S. O'Hlalloran (secretary). Mr. Justice Pinsent prefaced his paper by remarking that Newfoundland rejoiced in the appellation of "most ancient and loyal colony." That this island was the oldest colonial dependency of the British Crown was unquestionably true, and that it was and had been attached to the throne and sovereign of these realms, and to direct Imperial connection was borne out by its political history. In the present day the position and condition of Newfoundland were little known or regarded by the mother country, but this had not always been the case. It was discovered in the year 1497 by Bristol men in a ship called the Mathew, Sebastian Cabot being on board. The principal industry of the island was fishing, cod-fishing being by far the most important – seal, herring, salmon, and lobster fishing also being carried out to a considerable extent. The countries to which the bulk of the dried codfish was exported were the United Kingdom, Brazil, Portugal, Spain, the United States, Italy, Spanish and British West Indies, and the Dominion of Canada. The products of the seal fishery were sent almost exclusively to the United Kingdom. Lobsters were exported to Britain, and herrings chiefly to Canada and the United States. A small quantity of copper ore is also exported. The number of able-bodied fishermen in the colony in 1874 was 26,337, there being now about 30,238. The writer did not recommend any large, sudden, and indiscriminate scheme for immigration to this old colony, but there was, he believed room for farm and other such labourers; and he had no doubt that there were directions in which the fisheries and their manufacturers, notably the herring fishery, offered profitable enterprise to management; that there were great tracts of fertile land, and land especially adapted for sheep farming which, taken up by companies or by small parties of experienced men with some means would found more than remunerative: and that the mining resources of the island only required well directed enterprise and generous and persevering outlay of capital to assume dimensions of indefinite magnitude; and that generally the trade of the colony, now centred in the hands of comparatively few, offered a profitable field of investment to many more. In the present day comparatively few sailing vessels prosecuted the seal fishery, but from 20 to 25 steamships were employed, and there were few industries more precarious and speculative, though when it was successful the profits were prodigious. In common with the rest of the world, the trade of Newfoundland had suffered, and was suffering, from the depression that was a marked feature of the present time, but its elastic energy was such that he had no doubt it would recover its normal position as quickly as any other. In regard to the so-called "French shore question," Mr. Justice Pinsent remarked that the welfare of the colonists, the progress of the whole colony, were still very seriously impeded by the obstructions caused by treaties contracted in a day when it was never anticipated, and still less desired that the Island should be more than a fishing ship under naval discipline. The Marquis of Lorne, in proposing a vote of thanks to Mr. Justice Pinsent, said that having been on neighbouring shores, and having sailed round the coast of the island, he took the greatest amount of interest in Newfoundland. Taking into account the judge's remarks about the seal fisheries, which, he believed it was stated on one occasion yielded as much as £15,000 in a fortnight to a lucky vessel, it was probable that people would not only be sailing around the coast, but sealing, and he should feel very much inclined to do the same thing himself if agricultural depression continued much longer in his part of the country. He was sorry to hear the judge cast reflections on the English climate, but he believed that the reason why Newfoundland was the most ancient colony was because Englishmen found its climate so like their own that they thought it a favourable spot for colonization. One of the greatest misfortunes to the island by reason of its climate, was the French dispute, which he imagined had been originated by the Frenchmen discovering the similarity of climate which existed between that of Newfoundland and their own country. There was one part of the English climate which the judge could not disagree with – the east winds; for as Kingsley said, it was they which bore Vikings to their shores long before Britons saw and annexed the island, the resources of Newfoundland were great and capable of great expansion. It should be a favourable place for tourists, for its coast scenery and wooded hills were very fine. In fact, there were only two evils which the island laboured under—the one being the presence on the coast of gigantic cuttle fish, and the other the French. It was monstrous and intolerable that any foreign power should be allowed to have anything to do with our North American colonies, except landing for the purpose of mending their nets, and as time went on, he had no doubt that there would be changes made in that particular. He heard that they only had about 90 or 100 miles of railways at present, but when the Canadian Union had finished the big job that they were now engaged on —3,000 miles of railway from Atlantic to Pacific, they might be admitted into the Union and their wants supplied. (Cheers.). The vote of thanks was unanimously accorded, and the meeting closed with one to the chairman.

British Australasian: Thursday 16th April 1885

Royal Colonial Institute: ROYAL COLONIAL INSTITUTE. AT a meeting of the above-named institute on Tuesday last, held under the presidency of the Marquis of Lorne, K.T., G.C.M.G., Vice-President, at the Westminster Palace Hotel, a paper entitled "Newfoundland—our Oldest Colony," was read by the Hon. Mr. Justice Pinsent, D.C.L. Amongst those present were the following:--The Hon. J. C. Bray (late Premier South Australia), the Hon. Mr. Strutt, Lady Rayleigh, Admiral Sir Erasmus Ommanney, K.C.B., Sir Saul Samuel, K.C.M.G. (Agent-General for New South Wales), Lady Samuel and Miss Samuel, and Miss Pinsent. Before the reading of the paper the Honorary Secretary announced that since the last meeting 36 Fellows had been elected. Mr. PINSENT remarked that Newfoundland rejoices in the appellation of the "most ancient and loyal Colony." That this island is the oldest colonial dependency of the British Crown is unquestionably true; that it is and has been a loyal Colony attached to the Throne and Sovereign of these realms, and to direct Imperial connection, is borne out by its political history. In the present day the position and condition of Newfoundland are little known or regarded by the mother country, but this has not always been the case. Holding a prominent and scarcely to be overlooked place on any map of the New World, the English ignorance of the most ancient American possession of the Crown is as remarkable as it is unpardonable. He had heard stories of surprise being expressed that visitors from that country to England should converse in English. As a fact, the aborigines have long ago disappeared and with the exception of a few camps of Mic-Macs from Canada seeking fur, not an Indian is to be found in the island. After giving a full historical record of the island he reverted to trade. He was in possession of the latest available statistics to the extent and value of the Newfoundland fisheries:

Average annual value: $: Cod fishery— 6,934,242: Seal fishery – 1,026,896: Herring fishery - 581,543: Salmon fishery – 114,505: Lobster fishery - 104,184: All other fish 40,000: Total average value annually of the fisheries: $7,901,370 or £1,646,118 sterling: In the face of the many difficulties which are seen in her history to have beset Newfoundland which have placed her at a great disadvantage as compared with others, and cruelly retarded her progress, she has, since any chance been allowed her, steadily advanced and increased in population, internal wealth, and the blessings of civilization generally. Hers has not been the marvelous progress which has attended the great Australasian Colonies, which teem with various and boundless wealth; nor could she be compared as a centre of population with some of the richer fields of settlement which their' superior soil offers to the Canadian immigrant; but Newfoundland with her incomparable fisheries combine a soil which nearly everywhere in the island can be made a valuable auxiliary to them for the support of the people; which in other parts (in the more fertile belts and tracts) may be made self-supporting and independent of the fisheries, and is especially adapted for sheep raising. That as a mineral-bearing country the rich metalliferous character of the island as attested by the common consent of scientific men, only requires to be developed to place that Colony in the foremost rank of British possessions abroad; that at the heads of the great bays, in the tracts surrounding the great lakes, in the valleys of many of the rivers, there are reported to be contained nearly 3,000,000 acres adapted for settlement and cultivation, and that there are large areas of fine timber land. The deposit of gypsum is enormous, and building slate, granite, limestone, and marble abound. A discussion followed, and the Marquis of LORNE, in proposing a vote of thanks to Mr. Justice Pinsent, remarked that it was most mischievous and intolerable that any rights beyond the right of merely landing and using the shores for the purpose of repairing their nets should be allowed to any foreign power. It was a right which could not possibly be retained, as it was at present retained by the French Government. Sir Saul Samuel proposed a vote of thanks to the Marquis of Lorne for presiding, and the meeting then terminated.

Morning Post: Thursday 16th April 1885

Newfoundland: At a meeting of the Royal Colonial Institute held on Tuesday evening at the Westminster Palace Hotel — the Marquis of Lorne in the chair — a paper entitled "Newfoundland, our Oldest Colony," was read by the Hon. Mr. Justice Pinsent. The paper, which was of considerable length, gave elaborate historical details of the discovery and colonisation of Newfoundland, which rejoiced in the appellation of being the "most ancient and loyal colony" of the British Crown. The lecturer said that he was at a loss to account for the fact that it was so little known or appreciated by the mother country. Its fisheries were very ancient and were still most productive. In 1881 the seal fishery resulted in the capture of 447,903 seals of the estimated value of $957,760 and the total annual value of the various fisheries now amounted to upwards of £1,600,000. For many years in the history of the colony immigration had been discouraged and it was therefore not surprising that the agricultural produce of the country was not great, while the native minerals were utterly neglected. Without advising any great scheme for immigration, he contended that there were excellent opportunities for settlers with small capital; and in conclusion he maintained that while England held her possessions in North America, she could not dispense with Newfoundland, the outpost of America, the key to the St. Lawrence, and the headquarters of ocean telegraphy. In proposing a vote of thanks to the lecturer, the Marquis of Lorne said he had visited the colony and had taken great interest in it. Knowing the value of its fisheries, especially the seal fishery, he could well understand why some enterprising countrymen of his had left the neighbourhood of the Dee for the shores of Newfoundland, and if the present agricultural depression continued, he (the noble marquis) would feel inclined to follow their example. There could be no doubt that the shortening of the route between Europe and America by means of a railway across the island would be esteemed a great boon by many travellers and would be of advantage to the colony. The resources of Newfoundland were capable of great development, and the colony possessed considerable attractions for tourists, especially the western shore, still unfortunately known as the French shore. It was intolerable that any foreign nation should be allowed to claim any rights over the land of an English colony, excepting the privilege of using the shore for mending their nets, and sooner or later the claims that had been set up through misinterpretation must be put an end to. — A vote of thanks to the chairman closed the proceedings.

Manchester Evening News: Thursday 16th April 1885

From Our London Correspondent: London, Wednesday Night: What a nation of snobs we are! Since the Prince of Wales presided at the Royal Colonial Institute a month ago there has been an accession of thirty-six members - that is at the rate of nine a week or one and two-sevenths a day - to the strength of the Institute. In as much as the terms of membership are three guineas a year the chairmanship of his Royal Highness has had the effect of adding something like a hundred and fifteen pounds to the income of the Society. This is "unearned increment" if ever there was such a thing. Mr. Justice Pinsent informed us last night that great ignorance existed in England upon the subject of "The most ancient and loyal colony" of Newfoundland, and in order to remove that ignorance, he produced a paper, which, had he read the whole of it, would have occupied something like three hours in delivery. However, the learned judge mercifully inflicted but a portion of it upon our patience. From his paper it would appear that Newfoundland is in the happy position of not wanting any emigrants, though a few substantial capitalists would - as in any other portion of the globe – be made welcome. But what do our Irish Nationalist friends say to this: In the rough and ready days of Newfoundland jurisprudence, an Irishman, who had been convicted of cheating a neighbour, was sentenced to no other punishment than to be banished for ever to Ireland? The Marquis of Lorne, who looked paler and thinner than when he occupied the chair some months ago, made a very interesting speech, in which he sustained his poetical reputation by quoting a few lines from Charles Kingsley – and breaking down in the middle. The noble Marquis also displayed the canny Scot by telling us that if agriculture continued in its present depressed state, he should go into the Newfoundland seal fishery, of which Mr. Justice Pinsent drew such a very glowing picture. Fifteen thousand pounds a month may sometimes be made in this lucrative but risky enterprise.

Colonies and India: Friday 17th April 1885

Discussion: Mr. W. H. MARE: I have listened with great pleasure to the able and interesting Paper just read by Mr. Justice Pinsent, and, from long residence in the Colony, I can, of my personal knowledge, bear testimony to the correctness of most of his statements. I was at St. John's at the time of the visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales in 1860, and I feel sure that the demonstrations of loyalty on that occasion could not be exceeded in any part of the Empire. With regard to the French fishery rights, I fear there is very little chance of the matter being settled in our lifetime. I think, however, the British Government is bound, at the earliest opportunity, to make every effort to dispose of the question once and for all on a sound and satisfactory basis. A gentleman, one of the commissioners sitting in Paris a few years since, told me that one of his confreres said it was a pity to settle this "leettle" difference, as the pleasant re-unions on the subject assisted so materially in promoting the "entente cordiale" between the two nations. I have checked the statistics of the fishery and other exports, and I find the averages for 1880-1881-1882 are correct, and, I may add, that I have to-day received from St. John's a statement showing the export for the past year exceeded that average by more than a million of dollars. One thing I may refer to is that salmon, surpassing in quality any I have ever seen in England, can be purchased in season at 3d. per lb., and the finest lobsters at 2d. to 3d. each. I would suggest that, in addition to what Mr. Justice Pinsent said regarding the exportation of fresh cod packed in ice, a still better result, in point of profit to the speculator, would be obtained by sending salmon and lobsters so packed. I have seen salmon in London, as fresh as the day they were caught, which were purchased in St. John's a week before at 3d. per lb. In reference to cod-liver oil, which is universally admitted to be a most valuable medicine, that manufactured in Newfoundland is made from specially selected livers. Its natural colour is light straw: that from Norway is almost white, being bleached, and supposed by most persons to lose in that process its most beneficial properties. A guarantee for the purity of Newfoundland cod-liver oil is that it cannot be adulterated, as the salmon season is over before the cod fishery commences, and then nothing but cod is caught. There are many valuable mines at work in Newfoundland, and the industry is in its infancy. The greater part of Green Bay, on the north-east coast, is considered to be a mass of copper ore combined with nickel. The recent death of the lion. C. F. Bennett, the pioneer of mining in Newfoundland, has placed in the market a valuable mine known as Tilt Cove, in the very midst of the mineral-bearing region, which doubtless can now be obtained at a considerable reduction on repeated offers made in Mr. Bennett's lifetime. With regard to the joke about Prince William Henry, I was always under the impression, until this moment, that the story was strictly correct—the belief in Newfoundland is the offender was brought on board one day just before dinner, that His Royal Highness immediately ordered him three dozen lashes and to be tried the following day; he got the three dozen accordingly, and was duly tried the next morning, when it was discovered he was the wrong man. I am sorry to have heard this explanation, as I have often repeated the joke in perfect innocence. The dry dock at St. John's is capable of taking up, with one exception, the largest ship afloat, and apart from the immense advantage it is to the commercial marine, being just half-way between England and America, it must be, particularly in the event of war, of vast importance from an Imperial point of view. The railway, like most new undertakings, has had its difficulties to contend with, but no doubt will be eventually carried out. With regard to ocean telegraphy, to whomsoever the credit of its first conception is due, unquestionably its actual accomplishment is owing to the indomitable energy and Saxon determination of Mr. Cyrus Field, of New York, without whom, aided by the Newfoundland Government, I believe at this moment we should be without oceanic communication by cable. In conclusion I would say, as a long resident in the Colony, I feel much indebted to Mr. Justice Pinsent for having brought the interests of the island so prominently before such an influential assembly. Justice Pinsent's address to the members of the Colonial Institute has exposed to view once more the insane method that has been adopted with regard to the development of Newfoundland. The early Governors condemned the Colony to be a producer of -stock fish and seal oil, and so much did they discourage settlement that, up to 1811, they prohibited the erection of houses without written permission. Even to this day, this prohibition exists along the French shore, which (includes) nearly the whole of the coastline facing the Gulf of St. Lawrence. English and French fishermen alike may land there to dry their fish, but English dwelling-houses and farms are absolutely forbidden by the terms of the treaties with France, lest they should interfere with the fisheries. This arrangement is hindering the growth of the Colony. It has closed to agricultural settlement and mining enterprises, a region possessing a great area of rich soil and untold mineral wealth. The Legislature of Newfoundland, knowing that settlement on the West Coast will not interfere with the fisheries, have long endeavoured to escape from this intolerable arrangement; but the treaty is there, and the French stick to it. The Marquis of Lorne advocates the purchase of the French rights to keep the coast barren; or, if that cannot be arranged, he would give to them absolutely certain definite portions of the coast, as we left Pondicherry to them in India, and as we gave them the islands of Miquelon and St. Pierre off the Newfoundland coast. On this point all Canadians are agreed—that some means of escape must be found from the diplomatic abortion that keeps a shore a desert in order that fisheries may not be interfered with.

Proposed Restoration of Bovey Tracey Parish Church: An adjourned meeting of parishioners was held at Bovey Tracey on Saturday for the purpose of considering the offer of the Hon. and Rev. C. L. Courtenay to restore the chancel and provide a new screen, at an estimated cost of £1,500. To meet this amount an anonymous donor offers to give £500 and the remaining £1,000 will be subscribed by the Canon himself, who also guarantees to provide £30 per annum to the parish for the purpose of keeping the chancel in repair. In the parish there is a certain amount of opposition, mainly directed by Mr. Divett the owner of the potteries near, who claims there is no reason for the restoration, and Mr. Hole, a large tithe-owner of the parish, who refuses to give up his right to certain seats in the chancel, the restoration of which would deprive him of several leaving him but one in the chancel and the remainder in the body of the church. The Hon. and Rev. C. L. Courtenay presided, and the meeting was largely attended. In answer to Mr. Divett, who questioned the legality of that day's meeting, the Chairman said he was perfectly certain that was within his right in adjourning the meeting of last Saturday, and he also held the right, which he should exercise, of stating when a poll should be taken. Mr. E. Endacott, in supporting the Vicar, said he thought the condition of the church was a disgrace to the parish (Applause). Mr. S. Mugford said the Rural Dean's report on the church of Bovey was that it was everything that could be desired. Mr. W. R. Hole said that in refusing to give up his right to the seats in the chancel he acted from conscientious motives and was ready now to put the chancel in such a state of repair as was considered necessary. The Chairman said he must distinctly deny that any offer had been made to him by Mr. Hole to restore the chancel, as he had that matter too much at heart to forget anything concerning it. The decision they were about to take was of vital importance to them all and to those who would come after them. The original motion of the preceding Saturday was then put and lost by five votes. The poll was taken yesterday, Messrs. Sparkes and Beer acting on the matter behalf of the Vicar, and Messrs. Pinsent and H. Baker for the opposition. The voting concluded at eight o'clock, and the result will be found in another column.

Mr. Sparks denied any attempt having been made to bribe anyone in the Vicars party. The Vicar treated the matter as a joke. Mr. Sparks accused young Mr. Robinson of using great deal of party spirit, and when the voting was proceeding, he cried out from the top of the steps “down with the Church and Popery.”—The Vicar remarked that the discussion had continued quite long enough and, having again thanked them for their support, left the chair.

Missions to Seamen: The annual report of the Missions to Seamen contains a reference to the work done at Southampton with Havre in 1884. It says the opening of a temporary institute on the Town Quay has marked a new era in the work of the missions at this port. The large number of men making use of the reading rooms daily for reading and writing, the good attendances at the evening meetings and lectures, the room frequently being uncomfortably crowded, the demand for books from the lending library, together with the improvement in the congregations at the seamen's service at St. Julien's Church on Sunday evenings, prove that the institute is answering its purpose, and also augurs well for its future success: The gift, by a generous donor, of a mission-boat for Southampton Water will afford greater facilities for carrying on the work amongst the yachts anchored there during the summer months. Thanks are due to those who so kindly subscribed towards the institute fund, also to the following donors of special gifts: The Dean of Winchester, for a clock; Mrs. Maloney for a clock for the coffee bar; Admirals Strange and Whyte, for telescopes; Miss Jones and friends, for games; Mrs. Batten and Miss Matcham for illustrated papers weekly; Mr. and Mrs. Pinsent for pictures: and many others for books and periodicals. Statistics for 1884 2182 visits to ships; 260 services; 142 bags of reading; 30 Bibles and Prayer- books sold, including "Forms of Prayer for use at Sea:" enrolled 29 temperance men and 1 mission helper. During the year the work of the missions at Havre has been carried out with steady purpose, on board the large number of vessels which enter the port: The chaplain visits the station and works there as often as he can be spared from Southampton. The reader resides and works there. During the year there were nearly 20,000 attendances of seamen at the reading rooms, whilst over £200 was sent by the reader for seamen to their friends.

The Affairs of Messrs. Grey, of Smethwick: This morning the adjourned public examination of John and William Grey, corn factors, of Smethwick, was held at Oldbury, before the Registrar (Mr. Watson). Mr. Pinsent appeared on behalf of the trustee (Mr. E. M. Sharps). Mr. Pincnt explained that that examination had been adjourned in order that the bankrupts might file certain cash and other accounts relating to the period of six months before the filing of the petition. This account, which was a very voluminous one, had been finished, but it contained a number of entries which were in some respects very unsatisfactory. He proposed to obtain as much information as possible, and after laying before the Registrar certain extraordinary estimates, to leave it to him as to whether he considered them satisfactory or not. —The bankrupts were both sworn together, and in reply to questions from Mr. Pinsent, deposed that the accounts produced contained the whole of the monies within the period mentioned so far as he could ascertain. In regard to the purchase and sale account, he considered that 10 per cent, gross profit would be a fair estimate of what they got upon the goods sold, all around. — Mr. Pinsent: You show a gross profit of £160 only in this period on the amount turned over, which would be about £6,000; is that correct? — Debtors: Yes; but we had a lot of bad debts. — In replies to a further question, the debtors said they believed the bad debts were included in the statement — Mr. Pinsent pointed out that the profits should have been £600. The inference he wished to draw was that the amount had been understated by the debtors. In the cash account the estimate of the takings from the 6th to the 30th June, which was set down at £14 per week, was, he believed, correct. It was not based upon the imagination, but upon his opinion of the amounts they took. The only explanation he could give as to the omissions in two months of the entries in the cash account was that it had been neglected.—Mr. Pinsent then sought to show that the debtors obtained a note for the transfer of certain goods a day after their private examination from a person named Davenport, without disclosing to him their position, but neither of the debtors had any recollection either of the date or the transaction. John Grey admitted that just before the filing of the petition, he paid John Boyce £10 in repayment of a loan. — William Grey said he did not know even at the private meeting that they were insolvent, but John Grey said he was aware of the fact in October last, although he thought that with time the business might have paid 20s. in the pound. — The examination was then concluded, the debtors being allowed to pass, not, Mr. Pinsent said, because the statements were considered satisfactory, but they were of the opinion that nothing more satisfactory could be obtained by prolonging the examination.

Serious Offence: At the Ashburton Police Court, on Saturday, before Mr. F. S. Amery; William Jackman Langler, 19, a native of Ipplepen, was charged with attempting to commit a criminal assault upon Florence Pinsent, aged 10. It is alleged that the prisoner, who is in the employ of Mr. Ball, miller, Kingsteigoton, whilst driving his master's horse and cart with flour to Bickington on Friday afternoon, accosted the complainant, and after persuading her to ride in his cart, attempted to commit a criminal assault on her. The child's screams attracted the attention of a farmer named Harris, who looked over hedge and saw the committal of the offence. Langler made off, and left his master's house the same evening, saying he was going to enlist as a soldier. P.C. Cox, of Bickington, traced him to the Jolly Sailor, Newton Abbot, and apprehended him in bed, at eleven o'clock. He was removed to the lock-up Newton Abbot, and on Saturday taken to Ashburton police station. Prisoner was remanded. —On Monday the accused was again brought before the magistrates and, some further evidence having been taken, was committed for trial. Prisoner said nothing in defence.

Yesterday, before the Birmingham Official Receiver, at his offices, Colmore Row, a meeting was held of the creditors of George Carpenter Wallis until recently residing at No. 111, South Grove, Sheffield, and carrying on business as a steel manufactures at Norfolk Street, Sheffield, under the style of George C. Wallis and Co., and also at No. 77, Newhall Street Birmingham, but at present a prisoner in Warwick Gaol. The bankrupt was brought up in custody. Mr. Pinsent (Barlow, Smith, and Pinsent) appeared for the petitioning creditors and Mr. Freedman (from the offices of Messrs. East and Smith) for the bankrupt. No Statement of affairs was filed. ... (discussion of events) ... On the 2nd March the bankrupt was arrested at Sheffield on a charge of forgery, and on the 26th April he was sentenced to eighteen months hard labour. On December 15th 1884 execution was levied for £47 17s, but the effects seized only realized a few pounds towards that sum. The bankrupt, in reply to the Official Receiver and Mr. Pinsent stated that the only assets he knew of were the book debts, some of which had been collected by his solicitors, and the money, or part of it, used for his defence ...

It was arranged that his books should be forwarded to him in the gaol, and facilities given to him to make a statement of his affairs. The public examination is fixed for the 23rd inst. at Birmingham.

Alleged sale of drink during prohibited hours: Mr. R. Hole, of the Turk's Head, Newton, was before the Newton Magistrates on Tuesday charged with selling liquor during prohibited hours on August 23rd. ...

Mr. Hutchings for the defence contended that the men that were present were there on business, two having come to get vegetables from a garden behind the defendant's and which was rented separately from that of the licenced premises, of Mr. J. Pinsent who was the owner of the whole. The only means of getting to the orchard was through the yard. ... it would have to be proved that liquor was supplied and paid for ...

Mr. Pinsent was then called and stated that he was the owner of the public house as well as the garden and orchard behind the latter, did not belong to the licensed premises and was let out quite separately, although to get to it a person would have to pass through the defendant's yard. Edwin Bowden, a mason living at Highweek, stated that he rented a portion of the garden and on the Sunday in Question he went there to get some vegetables, and on his return, he had some conversation with the landlord. He emphatically denied that there was any cup there or that any liquor had been supplied to any one of them ... the Bench after retiring for a few minutes returned to court and dismissed the case on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence to convict.

Torquay, This Day: before Mr. L. B. Bowring (Chairman), and Mr. W. T. Bridges. The commencement of the business was considerably delayed owing to the non-attendance in time of sufficient magistrates. Mr. W. H. Kitson, J.P., sat for the first hour, during which he disposed of a rate defaulting case. In the meantime, the other magistrates were sent for. . . .

John Drew, landlord of the Star Inn, Higher Union Street, was summoned by Capt. Barber, Superintendent of Police, for having, on the 12th of September, permitted his licensed premises to be the habitual resort of reputed prostitutes, and allowing them to remain there longer than was necessary for obtaining reasonable refreshment. Mr. Friend appeared for the defendant, and also for Mr. Pinsent, of Newton Abbot, the owner of the premises. P.C. Brock stated that on the evening of the day named, about seven o'clock, acting under instructions, he went to the defendant's house in plain clothes. At quarter to eight o'clock three prostitutes came in and were supplied with several glasses of spirits. About nine o'clock one of the prostitutes went from the taproom with a young man to the back of the premises, and a daughter of the defendant went with them to a cottage, where they remained for about ten minutes. The prostitute then returned and she and the other two remained on the premises till eleven o'clock, being frequently supplied with drink in the meantime. The names of the prostitutes were Ellen Spry, Lydia Webber, and Fanny Shute. In cross-examination, the witness said Spry was supplied with eight glasses of spirit during the three hours and a quarter hours he was there. He paid for one of the glasses and stayed there the night. Spry solicited him during the evening. P.S. Bright, who visited the house at eight o'clock on the evening in question, proved that the women mentioned were prostitutes. Mr. Friend wished the magistrates to hear the other charges against the defendant before deciding on this, but the Bench did not agree to this course being adopted. Mr. Friend then admitted that the evidence was too strong for him to struggle against, and he left the case in the hands of the magistrates, asking them to be as merciful as they could as to the amount in which the defendant should be mulcted. The Bench inflicted a fine of 40s. and ordered that the license should be endorsed. Superintendent Bowden having stated that the next charge against the defendant was one of permitting drunkenness, Mr. Friend addressed the Bench on behalf of the owner of the premises, saying that, as the defendant would now be disqualified from again holding a license in the district, he would undertake that he should be removed from the house within one day or six. The owner of the house, to whom none of the facts stated had been made known, stood in a very serious position, and he asked them to save him (Mr. Pinsent) from the terrible consequences of his tenant's delinquency. Mr. Bridges reminded Mr. Friend that Drew had been previously convicted, and his license endorsed and under such circumstances the owner should have been doubly watchful of his tenants. Mr. Friend replied that the previous conviction was more than five years ago. The Chairman admitted this but said the misconduct of the house had been going on for years. Mr. Friend, on behalf of Mr. Pinsent, again offered that before that day week Drew should leave the premises, and a new tenant should be found whom the bench should think of as a fitting person. They were quite ready to do anything that was considered necessary by the authorities for preventing a repetition of the offences. The five other cases against the defendant were then adjourned for a week, in order that notice might be given, according to the section, to the owner of the house to the effect that the license had been endorsed, for the purpose of giving him an opportunity of appealing against the decision in his own interest.

Serious Charges Against a Torquay Publican: At the Torquay Petty Sessions on Monday, before L.B. Bowring, Esq., (Chairman), and W. Bridges, Esq., John Drew, landlord of the Star Inn, Higher Union Street, was summoned by Captain Barbor, Superintendent of Police, for having on the 12th September permitted his licensed premise to be the habitual resort of women of ill-fame, and allowing them to remain there longer than was necessary for obtaining reasonable refreshment. Mr. Friend, of Exeter, appeared on behalf of the defendants, and the owner of the premises, Mr. Pinsent, brewer, of Newton Abbot. P.C. Brock, of the C. Division stated that on Saturday, 12th September, from instructions he received, he went to the house of the defendant about seven o'clock in the evening in plain clothes. About a quarter to eight three young girls came in. He very soon saw from their behaviour and language what they were. They were supplied with several glasses of spirits by the landlord and his daughter, and about nine o'clock, one of the women went outside the door with a young man. They went to a cottage close by and shortly afterwards returned. The women remained on the premises until eleven o'clock. The women were named Ellen Spry, Lydia Webber and Fanny Shute. Cross Examined: he saw Ellen Spry supplied with eight glasses of spirit. Mr. Friend, in addressing the Bench on behalf of the defendant, said the proofs against the defendant were very clear and straightforward, and as far as this went, he left the defendant at their mercy. He asked them to confine their judgment simply to the defendant and leave him (Mr. Friend) the opportunity of addressing them on behalf of the owner of the premises. The Bench fined the defendant £2 and endorsed his License. Mr. Friend, on behalf of Mr. Pinsent, said he had made arrangements for the removal of the defendant from the premises at once, as he would be disqualified from again holding a license for a term of five years. It would be necessary too, to give Mr. Pinsent notice of conviction before going into any other cases. The Bench adjourned the other five cases till next Monday for the purpose of giving Mr. Pinsent notice of conviction. OFFENCES UNDER THE LICENSING ACT: At the Torquay Police Court yesterday, before Messrs. L. B. Bowring (chairman), W. Bridges, P. B. Drinkwater, and Capt. Wray. John Drew, landlord of the Star Inn, Higher Union Street, Torquay, appeared in answer to a summons charging him with harbouring prostitutes on licensed premises. Mr. Friend, of Exeter, who appeared for defendant and the owner of the premises, Mr Pinsent, of Newton Abbot, pleaded not guilty, and asked, before the case was gone into, to be allowed to make a statement on behalf of the owner. The evidence —so far he had learnt, was of such forcible and cogent a character, that it would be impossible for him to make any struggle against it. The Chairman: Then why don't you plead guilty? You cannot make a statement unless you do so. Mr Friend said he wished to ask the Bench not to record the conviction on the license, as the effect would be very hard on the owner. The Bench decided the case must be gone into before Mr. Friend could make his appeal. Mr. Friend said his client was willing to plead guilty. P.O. Brock said he went into the house in plain clothes at eight o'clock on the evening of September 19th and found the room filled with prostitutes, who danced and drank until half past ten. At that time P.O. Gregory, who was on duty in that neighbourhood, looked in and cautioned the defendant. The next charge was for permitting gaming on September 21st. On the afternoon of that day Brock and another constable entered the house dressed "country yokels," and at the invitation of two men had ten games of "Don," and five quarts of beer. At the conclusion of the first game Brock's partner said he had no money, and the constable put down 5d for the beer. Defendant said it was 6d for card-playing beer and received the additional 1d. During the play Detective Bond entered the house, and on his quitting one of the men said, "Mind we are not playing for anything if anyone asks the question outside; that's a ---- detective." The other man replied as long as the marking board was on the table they could play what they liked. The landlord was called in to decide the point, and give his verdict against the latter argument, saying that a publican near Exeter had been fined for permitting card playing. Defendant was present during the time play took place and occasionally took one of the men's "hands." A third case of harbouring prostitutes on the same day was next gone into. Mr. Friend was then permitted to address the Bench and said that the 56th section of the Licensing Act was enacted for the protection of innocent people such as the owners of licensed property. They were entirely at the mercy of those to whom they let their property, and who they believed to be honest and respectable persons, under those circumstances he argued that the section of the Act he had quoted gave the owner an opportunity to appeal against any decision the Bench might arrive at respecting the withdrawal of the license. Mr. Pinsent had received the formal notices and, in the meantime, had arranged to evict the defendant Drew forthwith, and to place a trustworthy man with the sanction of the Bench in his place. Mr. Friend proceeded to point out that if the license was endorsed three times it would be forfeited, and the owner would not be able to license the premises again for two years. Defendant was entirely mired by the charges proved against him; he thought the Bench would temper mercy with justice by saying he had already been sufficiently punished. So far as Mr. Pinsent was concerned, there was already one endorsement on the license which would reflect on the house for the next five years, and the owner had gone to the expense of paying £20 to the excise in order that he might retain the license in his own possession. The Bench after a short consideration inflicted fines of 20s each in the two first cases and endorsed the license, and the third case was not dealt with. By reason of this decision the defendant would be disqualified for five years to hold any license, and the premises would not be licensed for two years.

Conservative Demonstration at Newton Abbot: Disgraceful behaviour of the Radicals: A great meeting of the Conservatives of the Teignbridge Division was held at Newton Abbot on Saturday in connexion with the formal opening of the Constitutional Club and in support of the candidature of Mr. W. J. Harris, M. P. The programme commenced with the opening of the Club noon. This was followed by a luncheon at half-past one o'clock, and a public meeting at half past three. The proceedings were very numerously attended throughout, and the two first events passed off without opposition; but not so the public meeting, at which the Radicals mustered in strong force, and, in the end created a most unseemly and disgraceful disturbance. Their conduct most cowardly and, make what excuses they will, must reflect lasting disgrace on the town and their own party. Not content with disturbing the meeting, and continually interrupting the speakers, they evidently intended to try and carry a resolution adverse to Mr. Harris but the uproar they created defeated their own ends for when the motion was proposed and seconded and a Mr. Martin rose up to move an amendment, the din was so great that he could not be heard, and the motion was declared carried ...

Madras High Court: (Before Mr. Justice Parker, C.B.): A Claim for Damages: Mr. Justice Parker has for the past few days been engaged in hearing a case brought by Mr. Francis Cripps against Mr. C. P. T. Pinsent, in which the plaintiff claimed the sum of Rs. 5,190 and interest, being damages alleged to have been sustained by plaintiff by reason of certain misrepresentations by the defendant as to the value of the security offered by Mr. Robert E. Cripps, the late dubash of defendant's firm, to his brother. In May 1884, one Venkatasswamy brought 220 maunds of indigo to the defendant's godown for shipment. An arrangement was entered into by which the goods were transferred to Mr. R. E. Cripps, defendant's durbash, and Mr. Pinsent then acted in referent to the goods ... (continues) ...

Grant in summing up for the defense, said that in this case Mr. Fancis Cripps, of Messrs. Eales and Co., and formerly in the service of Messrs. Shaw and winch, had come into Court with a plaint, in which he alleged that he had cause of action against Mr. Pinsent by reason of his fraud and deceit. The case had since taken a turn. It was now working round and forming itself into a case of contract, in which the plaintiff was requested to pay for Mr. Pinsent, the latter being unable to pay it himself. The present case was one for damages and deceit, and misrepresentation. ... discussion of Mr. Pinsent's transactions ...

(later) ... learned counsel submitted that the plaintiff had made out his case, that Mr. R. E. Cripps name had merely been used, so that Mr. Pinsent would not have direct dealings with Venkatasawmy, and that Mr. Pinsent was liable for the money. His Lordship delivered an oral judgement, dismissing the suit with costs.

Western Times; Thursday 24th December 1885

CHRISTMAS MARKETS NEWTON ABBOT: As if by mutual assent, the whole of the tradesmen, this year have gone in for additional display, and no one can deny that they have admirably succeeded. Throughout the town stocks of all kinds seemed abundant, and great taste was displayed in their arrangement. Not only was this the case with the butchers, grocers, and confectioners, but the drapers seemed to vie with each other to which could produce the greater variety of wares. Toys seem to be a new innovation in their respective establishments, so that a stranger would hardly recognize a legitimate Noah's Ark or "Dustpan" from a London or Manchester warehouse by merely looking in at the windows; in fact, some of them aspire to be the "People's Provider" on a small scale. The butchers had extraordinarily large supplies of very prime carcasses, some of them having been purchased at the recent Fat Stock Show at Exeter and reflected the greatest credit on their breeders and feeders. Mrs. Lavis, in Highweek Street, made a grand display, the holly decorations being neatly arranged, and the cornice filled in with the seasonable motto, "Christmas greetings to all," with white plush letters on a red ground, and looked very effective. Among her well-arranged stock was a fine fat ox 10 cwt., that was bred and fed by the Right Hon. Lord Fortescue and won the first prize at the recent Exeter Fat Stock Show. An ox, 9 cwt., bred and fed by Mr. Harvey, of Chagford; a fat heifer, bred and fed by Mr. Greenslade, Barnstaple; a fat heifer, 7 cwt., bred and fed by Mr. Mark Evens, Grattons, Totnes; also a splendid lot of Exmoor and wether mutton and a fine lot of pigs, one them bred and fed by Mr. Dolbear, Newton, and weighing ten score, was specially good. Mr. Robert Lavis, Wolborough Street, had what was evidently the fattest ox shown: It weighed 10 cwt. 2qrs., and was bred and fed by the Right Hon. Lord Fortescue, and took second prize at Exeter; a prime heifer, fed by Mr Wood, Exeter; a very fine lot of Exmoor and South Down mutton; and some very fine pigs, one of them bred and fed by G. Mills Esq., Newton Abbot, and weighing twelve score, received special commendation. At this was also exhibited a remarkably well-fed rabbit. Mr. Rowe, Courtenay Street, exhibited two fine heifers from Exeter Fat Stock Show, a North Devon ox, and a heifer fed by Mr. Dolbear, Newton; choice veal, South Down, Dartmoor and Exmoor wethers, and a lot of excellent porkers fed by Mr. Reed, of Woodland. Mrs. Stranger, Queen Street, made very excellent display of well-fed stock, but not quite so fat as any of the former, an consequently more profitable; it included two prime prize oxen from the Exeter Show, bred and fed by J. Wills, Esq., a prime heifer bred and fed by J. Loram, Esq., an 18 months old heifer bred and fed by Mr. Emmett, some fine hogs bred and fed by Mr. W. Rendell, Netherton, a lot of Exmoor wethers from the Tiverton Fat Cattle Show, and a capital lot of pork. Mr. Taylor, Courtenay Street, Mr. Copp, Queen Street, Mr. Palk, East Street, and Mrs. Hellens, Wolborough Street, although not so elaborate their display, had each of them very good shows of meat. Mr. Heaward and Mr. Hellens excelled in their display of well-fed pigs. The poulterers' shops, notably those of Mr. Matthews, Mr. Murrin and Miss Wills were literally crowded with poultry and game of all kinds. Among the confectioners, who made a special display of very choice wares in the highest perfection of their art, were Mrs. Russell, in Bank Street, Mrs. Stidworth, and Mrs. Thomas in Courtenay Street. Mrs. Towell and Mrs. Hodge in Courtenay Street; and after feasting one's eyes on all the delicacies there displayed it was a kind of relief to take a glance at the bottle store of J. B. Pincent, and in imagination sip the "nectar " to be found in that well arranged establishment. The grocers' shops generally were very tastefully laid out, the fruits most tempting to look upon. Among the most successful competitors in that line were Commin and Co., Foss., and J. S. Bearne and Son, in Bank Street; Snow and Baker in Wolborough Street, Pascoe and Haydon, East Street; Hartland, Courtenay Street; Nicholson, Gribble, Henwood, and Hellens in Queen Street. The jewellers made an excellent display of chaste and recherche articles for Christmas presents: Mr. Huxtable's shop in Queen Street, and Mr. Smerdon's in Wolborough Street being particularly noted for their extant and variety. The ironmongers, toy dealers, and others had also good displays, and nothing was wanted but a continuous rush of customers with well lined pockets, and a free use of the same, to recompense for the outlay to make their Christmas cheerful and happy. On Tuesday night the weather being very fine and bracing a vast concourse of inhabitants turned out to see the sights, and, on the whole, were greatly gratified. Wednesday being the general market it was very largely attended, and the supply most abundant, livestock being the exception; still there was ample even of that to meet all demands and prices were unaltered. Mr. John Tully, of Danbury had a capital show of well-fed beef and mutton that was none in the market, which is no mean compliment where the quality generally was above average. Prices generally were from 7d to 10d per lb. The Pannier Market was well stocked with poultry of all kinds. Geese and turkeys sold on an average at 1s per lb and weighed from 9 to 16 lbs; ducks were 7s to 9s and fowls 5s to 8s couple; butter 1s 8d to 1s 9d per lb, eggs 1s 4d to 1s 6d per dozen. In the Corn Market business was merely nominal. Wheat was quoted at 4s to 4s 3d, malting barley 3s 6d to 3s 9d per bushel, oats 7s to 7s 6d per bag, grinding barley 20s to 21s, maize 25s to 26s per quarter, flour 24s 6d, superfine ditto, 26s 6d per sack; potatoes 6d to 8d per score by the bag. Mistletoe and holly were in abundance.

Great Conservative Meeting: Presentation to Mrs. W. J. Harris: Thursday last was a day that will long be remembered with the liveliest interest by Conservatives of this division, not only because it was the occasion when a very handsome testimonial – a silver epergne valued at £110 – was presented to Mrs. W. J. Harris in recognition of the gallant fight her husband, as Conservative candidate, made in the recent political contest, but because Conservatives, men and women, irrespective of the social standing, met in the furtherance of the principles they held so dear at heart. ... (description of event) ...

After the presentation the company repaired to the Vegetable Market where supper awaited them ...

The stewards and ladies presiding at the different tables were as follows: ...

At No. 8 table, Mr. Whiteway, Mr. Bulley and Mrs. Formby, Mr. H. Mill and Mrs. W. Pinsent, Mrs. Welch, and Mrs. Godfrey ...

Alleged Absconding of a Birmingham Bankrupt: At the Birmingham Police Court yesterday morning, before Mr. Kynnersley (stipendiary) an application was made for a warrant against Mr. Arthur William Johnson, described as a draper, late of 210 Aston Road. It was explained that Johnson had lately sailed for Australia with a considerable sum of money. He had since been declared bankrupt, and would arrive today at Malta ...

As above stated, a warrant was issued by the Registrar, but it was not deemed sufficient to stop Johnson's passage to Australia. Shortly after one o'clock, Mr. Pinsent (Barlow, Smith, and Pinsent) came into court and resumed the application for a warrant. Mr. Hebbert: I don't quite see now what you want to do. Mr. Pinsent here handed to the Bench the deposition made by Mr. Court, cashier, Harborne, which stated that two days before Johnson absconded, he sold £10 worth of goods to the deponent at a reduction of 20 per cent ...

The warrant of the Registrar, it was explained would have to pass through the Home and Colonial Office: Mr. Pinsent said that on the 6th of May Johnson sailed by the ship Shannon of the P. and O. line for Australia, leaving his wife and three children behind him ...

Mr. Hebbert: I don't see what we have to do with it: Mr. Pinsent: According to the Fugitive Offenders Act, it is necessary that we should obtain a warrant from the magistrates. A warrant for Johnson's apprehension was then granted. ...

Mr. C. Pinsent was, on the 17th inst., unanimously elected Secretary of the Harbour Trust by the non-official members of the Board. The official members refrained from voting. The election is unobjectionable; indeed, the trustees may be congratulated on finding ready to hand a comparatively young man, who spent many years in the service of the Peninsular and Oriental S. N. Company, both afloat and ashore and has of late years been connected with local commerce, and the local freight market. Mr. Pinsent commenced his business career as an Assistant Purser in the Peninsular and Oriental Company's "Home Service" between Southampton, Alexandria and Marseille in 1866, before the opening of the Canal, and was transferred in 1868 to the Calcutta Suez line. In 1870 he proceeded to Bombay and was placed by the Superintendent in charge of the dock yard accounts at the Company's Mazagon Office, being subsequently promoted to a responsible position in the Central, or Fort Office in that city. Mr. Pinsent's qualifications were recognized by his being, in 1872, specially selected for the appointment of Chief Assistant In the Company's Madras Agency, where he served with much credit to himself, and satisfaction to his employers until 1876, when he resigned the service of the Company to join the firm of Shaw and Winch. He is active in his habits, is blessed with a cheery disposition, and is courteous and shrewd. His early training should now stand him in good stead; and should the Board direct him to go at once to Bombay, to look up the officers of the Port Trust of that city, and to gain an insight into their methods, regulations, and experience, he should soon be in a position to put things in proper trim for the local Trust.

Western Times: Wednesday 18th August 1886

We have received the following letter respecting Mr. Pinsent from our friend Mr. W.E. Bale: Maritzburg, Natal, 20th July 1886 Dear Sir, - I see by the obituary notice taken from an English paper that Mr. Savery Pinsent died at Kingsteignton in May last. He came to Natal with me in the ship "John Gibson," which left London Docks in May 1849, and arrived at Durban in the following October, after a fearful passage, during the greater part of which we had to live upon wretched food, and had to put up with the annoyance of a mutiny between the officers and men, caused by the harsh treatment of the latter. The object of the passengers generally was to farm, but when in answer to my inquiry on landing I was told there was no market for the produce, and seeing from the very small number of inhabitants that there was truth in the remark, I at once gave up all idea of going on to my 60 acre lot, and gave it to one of my fellow passengers. Of those who occupied their lots, all eventually gave them up, poorer, and I think wiser, men. Some afterwards practised their trades and professions, several soon died, and a number after a short time returned to England. Several, however, after years of hardships succeeded and at the end of 36 years succeeded, and the great majority have gone to their long home, amongst them good old Robert Elliott and his wife, late of Chumleigh, Dr. C. Johnston died at Barnstable a few years since, and now my old friend Mr. Pinsent has likewise gone. I had the pleasure of spending a day with him when I was last in England, and of recalling the trials, disappointments, and scenes of our early emigrant life. I learned then that he was devoting his later days to the good of others: Yours truly, W.E. Bale.

Torquay: Belgrave Congregational Church was last evening reopened for worship after repairs and alterations. The edifice has been closed for the past few weeks to allow for its being cleaned and re-decorated. The ceiling has been ornamented in light blue panels, and the walls are painted a warm salmon tint. A lobby has been erected at the entrance, and the extra comfort obtained thereby will be much appreciated. The total cost is £250, and although the building is not completely finished, advantage has been taken of the presence of the Rev. Newman Hall, LL.B., of London, in Torquay on a visit, to secure his services in connection with the re-opening of the church for worship. Last evening the rev. gentleman preached in the chapel to a large audience, taking his text from 1 Corinthians i., 23, "We preach Christ crucified." From these words the preacher delivered an earnest and impressive discourse, and at the close a collection was taken in aid of the funds to meet the expenditure made. The work of renovation has been in the hands of Mr. Smerdon, builder, and Mr. Pinsent, painter.

The Registrar said he had been looking down the statement and it appeared that £8,500 liabilities had been contracted this year: Mr. Hyam: And mostly in the last three or four months: Mr. Pinsent (who appeared for the debtors) said that would go to substantiate that the debtors were in a solvent position up to the time mentioned. Mr. Pinsent (Barlow, Smith and Pinsent) explained with reference to the assets, that a considerable part of them were unrealisable for the purposes of composition. About £5,000, would be a better figure to put them at for this purpose. A composition of 5s. in the pound would absorb £3,600, there would be preferential claims of £456 and the expense of these proceedings would probably be about £240, so that deducting these sums, the debtors would be left with small working capital. What Mr. Pinsent suggested was this, that the creditors should take a composition of 5s in the pound, payable in two, six, nine months, the last two instalments to be secured, and that the concern should be turned into a limited liability company, allotting to each creditor preference shares equal to 5s. in the pound on their claims. ... Sharp, Official Receiver in Bankruptcy. ...

The debtors were represented by Mr. Pinsent (Barlow, Smith, and Pinsent) ... (summary of finances) ... A meeting of a few of the principal creditors was convened, and after the matter had been carefully considered they were advised to petition the court for a receiving order: Mr. Pinsent now made a proposal with a view to a settlement. He pointed out that for composition purposes a considerable portion of the assets was unrealizable, and making an allowance for this circumstance, he did not think that more than £5,000 would be available. ...

Mr. Pinsent explained that the machinery had been put in at breaking up prices. Mr. Ansell opposed the scheme, which he said was more worthy of the Chancellor of the Exchequer than of Mr. Pinsent (laughter). His clients would prefer to see the offer of composition increased, and the latter part of the scheme dispensed with, or to have the estate wound up in bankruptcy as an alternative. ...

On the suggestion of several creditors Mr. Pinsent conferred in private with his clients as to the amount of composition they would be prepared to offer, and on his return, Mr. Ansell proposed that the meeting should be adjourned in order that the matter might be further considered. ...

(see also) ... Tithe Rent Charge Agitation: Sir: - I find in yesterday's Western Morning News that someone who signs himself "A R W, Mary Church" says that at the present time all tithe owners (that is clergymen) are giving back 9 ½ percent to tithe payers (that is farmers). I consider those remarks unjust, unfair and untruthful, for when the Tithe Commutation Act was passed it was based on a percentage of corn; if it rose clergymen received more, if vice versa, less. I might as well say when the tithe stood at 112 per cent, eight years ago that I gave my clergyman 12 percent. The thing is utterly preposterous and beside the mark, and I trust the person who signs himself "A.R.W." will see his way clear to withdraw the charge of "gift" against the farmers. For my own part I have never asked, nor do I ever intend to sign a requisition to, my clergyman for reduction of tithe, as I consider it would be unreasonable, having my farm subject to such charges. If the farm is too dear, the proper person for me to make a complaint to is my landlord: Yours truly HENRY PINSENT, Whitstone Farm Tracey.

Totnes Weekly Times: Saturday 29th January 1887

Recollections of the Late Mr. John Bishop: About 50 years ago when a little boy, I joined a huge procession of a rather motley crowd of men and boys to beat the bounds of the borough. The worshipful mayor of that year was, I think Willian Searle Bentall, and many of the officials of the corporation were present. The late Mr. Bishop and his colleague, Mr. Pinsent, the two town sergeants, headed the procession with long sticks or wands, and on arriving at the Mill Leat, near the entrance to the racecourse, money in silver and pence was thrown into the water to be dived for. The recovery of the money was briskly competed for and created great amusement. This and other incidents connected with this time honoured and useful custom gave me my first vivid recollection of Mr. Bishop. The Reform Bill passed in 1832, my impression is that Mr Bishop was town sergeant under the old corporation for very many years and if so, he was a borough official when Lord Courtney was last elected under the old regime, by the Freeman (?) of the borough, and was subsequently on walking through the town pelted with cabbage stumps. Often have I listened with rapt attention to the recital by the deceased of stories connected with the growing disaffection at the old borough mongering transactions, or to the tales of the yeomanry and volunteers of the time the first Napoleon. On one occasion when number of French prisoners, passing through Totnes on their route to Dartmouth prisons, were lodged for the night in the stables of the Prince Eugene Inn, a well-known shoemaker, Christopher Furneanx, was on looking in on the prisoners, apprehended by the guard and thrust in amongst them as deserter and, after being kept there for several hours, he was released. This practical joke greatly enraged Furneanx, and amused the bye-standers, Mr. Bishop is connected in my memory with the Reform Holiday in 1832, with the coronation festivities here of the crowning of William IV., with the Parliamentary elections of Parrott and Cornish, Lord Seymour and Baldwin, Mills, Earl Gifford, Alfred Seymour, Pender, and the rival and unsuccessful candidates, with the riots, hustings fights, pelting rotten eggs, processions of hired bullies and rowdies, with the accompanied drunkenness and corrupt influences ... AN AFFECTING NARRATIVE: At the siege of Namur there were in the ranks of the company commanded by Captain Pincent, in Colonel Frederick Hamilton's regiment, one Union, a corporal, and one Valentine, a private sentinel. There happened between these two men a dispute about a matter of love, which upon some aggravations grew into an irreconcilable hatred. Union, being the officer of Valentine, took all opportunities to strike his rival and to profess the spite and revenge which moved him to it. The sentinel bore it without resistance; but frequently said he would die to be revenged on that tyrant. They had spent whole months thus, one injuring, the other complaining; when, in the midst of this rage towards each other, they were commanded upon the attack of the castle, where the corporal received a shot in the thigh and fell; the French pressing on and he expecting to be trampled to death, called out to his enemy, "Ah, Valentine! can you leave me here?" Valentine immediately ran back, and in the midst of a thick fire of the French took the corporal upon his back, and brought him through all that danger, as far as the abbey of Salsine, where a cannonball took off his head; his body fell under his enemy whom he was carrying off. Union immediately forgot his wound, rose up, tearing his hair, and then threw himself upon the bleeding carcass crying "Ah, Valentine! Was it for me, who have so barbarously used thee that thou hast died? I will not live after thee. "He was not, by any means, to be forced from the body, but was removed with it bleeding in his arms and attended with tears by all their comrades who knew their enmity. When he was brought to a tent his wounds were dressed by force; but the next day, still calling upon Valentine, and lamenting his cruelties to him, he died in the pangs of remorse and despair. It may be a question among men of noble sentiments which of these unfortunate persons had the greater soul; he that was so generous as to venture his life for his enemy, or he who could not survive the man that died in laying upon him such an obligation.

He did leave, and the question of the value of the tenant right was referred to two referees, one appointed by the landlord the other the tenant. Plaintiff's contention was that the referees agreed between them that the value of the tenant right to be paid to plaintiff was £83 19s. — Mr. Young: I say they did not agree, and that is the point. — Mr. Shaw read the correspondence which had taken place between the referees on which the case turned. It appeared from the letters that plaintiff's referee had quoted £83 19s as the amount offered by defendants' referee for his consideration. Defendant's referee replied to the letter without calling the figures in question. Plaintiff's referee then said he would accept the offer, but the defendant's referee thereupon denied the accuracy of the figures. The referees would no doubt have come to a settlement, but they met in Birmingham, and the defendant's referee used some bad language without provocation, which caused the negotiations to be broken off. — Evidence for the plaintiff was called, and his Honour found that there was nothing proved which would bind the defendant to accept the £83 19s. Verdict for defendant.

Mr. Pinsent (Barlow, Smith and Pinsent) appeared as solicitor to the debtors, two only of whom attended, a medical certificate being put in stating that Hubert Joseph Horsley was too ill to leave his house ... (statement of affairs) ... Another creditor complained of discrepancies between the present statement of affairs and that submitted to the private meeting. The Official Receiver said that it would be his duty to go into any matter of that kind. Mr. Pinsent pointed out that the balance sheet submitted to the private meeting was prepared only on the accounts to the end of June, though it was not submitted to the creditors till July 13th. The Official Receiver: I think I stated that the debtors did not know of their insolvent position until the balance sheet was prepared. Mr. Pinsent: As soon as the balance sheet was prepared showing that the estate was insolvent, I told the debtors to stop all trading ...

Several of the largest creditors stated that they could not accept the offer. The Official Receiver: Are you in a position to improve it, Mr. Pinsent? Mr. Pinsent; Not in the least: The gentleman who offers the security does so on the condition that these terms are accepted ...

within a few years of his death, took the liveliest interest in county affairs. Mr. Speke had a very commanding appearance and was the very type of "Old English gentleman." The Spekes have been connected with the county for centuries, and when Lord Chatham and William Pitt lived at Burton Pinsent friendly relations existed between the two families, and we believe there are in the possession of the Spekes some valuable letters from the celebrated Minister. The late Mr. Speke was justly proud of the honourable distinctions gained by his son, the late Captain Speke, the renowned African explorer.

Pall Mall Gazette: Thursday 15th December 1887

Imperial Interviews: V. Newfoundland: II French v. English: ...

[major editorial] ... Newfoundlanders have a Magna Charta of their own in the despatch of the Secretary of State after the close of the Crimean War, in which he said that "The consent of Newfoundland is regarded as the essential preliminary to any modification of their territorial or maritime rights." They point to this with pride as settling the question of the territorial rights of France for ever: And their contention is borne out by the most respected judge in the island, Mr. Justice Pinsent, in reply to a presentment of the grand jury of Bay St. George at the Supreme Court on Circuit, September 5th last. In this presentment they called his lordship's attention to the fact that the result of the passing of the Bait Bill had already been to draw the attention of the French shipowners to Bay St. George, and that they feared that the French would assume territorial rights as well as practically ruin the inhabitants by catching all the bait they wanted instead of purchasing it as before. Mr. Justice Pinsent in reply observed (I copy this from his own manuscript), "That under the Treaty of Utrecht the whole of the island was declared to be the rightful territory of Great Britain, and to be under its absolute sovereignty. The terms of this treaty in this respect have never been abrogated or abandoned. I have never understood for a moment that the Crown has ever in any degree allowed any Sovereign or proprietorial claim on the part of France. The easement reserved to the French by treaty is no more a secession of sovereignty or dominion than are the privileges conferred by treaty upon the United States of America. The presence of British ships of war, of civil officers, and the right of popular legislative representation enjoyed by the people of this coast and its subjection to taxation and Customs regulations, with the presence here of the Supreme Court of this island and its dependencies, with jurisdiction over the adjacent seas and with cognizance of offences committed upon the banks of Newfoundland, all attest this position, which is in no wise annulled by the permissive presence of a French naval force for the discipline and protection of their own marine." This is absolutely conclusive, and it is accordingly certain that the French will never become possessed, unless the fortune of war should give it to them as it took it away, of any portion of the Newfoundland coast. They had not the right by treaty, even if they had, they have allowed it to lapse by default, and now they are clearly not inclined to insist upon it. A pamphlet upon the subject which takes on a semi-official character from being handed to me by the French Consul as an accurate expression of French views, declares this openly and concludes with the mild but significant reproach " Pour obtenir la cession d'un droit, c'est un mauvais point de depart que d'ennier l'existence.' The question of territorial rights being thus disposed of, we come to the second question of French and English fishing relations that is to the Bait Bill. ...[continues] ...

The proceedings were taken by the Registrar (Mr. Brabazon Campbell) in public court, the Grand Jury Room of the Hall being used for the purpose. The Official Receiver (Mr. E. T. Barlow, Smith and Pinsent, Birmingham) for Mr. Kelynge Greenway, and Mr. W. B. Sanderson (Warwick) for Mr. G. C. and Colonel Greenway ... (description of proceedings) ...

Mr. Peirson said it affected them in many ways. The question of discharge might come up in time, and if the statements of affairs were correct the Official Receiver at that time would be able to rely upon them; but if these corrections were never made, it might occasion some trouble. If, in two or three years hence, the question came up, and his (Mr. Peirson's) successor referred to the statements of affairs and found them incorrect, they would be of no use to him. Mr. Pinsent said it quite understood that one or two little alterations should be made, and there would be no objection to the statements being rectified in these respects ... (further discussion) ...

Mr. James Upton, of Baskerville Works Cambridge Street, is the plaintiff and Messrs. Moody Brothers, of Needles Alley, Birmingham, printers, are the defendants. The plaintiff has for many years published the Birmingham A.B.C. Railway Timetables and Directory, and the defendants last month commenced the publication of a timetable upon the same system, which the plaintiff considered to be an infringement of his copyright: On the writ being served the defendants admitted the infringement, and consented to the injunction being granted. Mr. Pinsent stated that the parties had agreed upon a sum to be paid by the defendants for damages and costs. His Lordship granted a perpetual injunction against the defendants, restraining them from infringing plaintiff's copyright.

This Days' Police: Town Hall ... Theft by A Trick: Alfred Hallam, shoe rivetter, 2 Queen Street, was charged with stealing 2s 6d, the money of John Pinsent, keeping the Sir Robert Peel beerhouse, Bedford Street, on 30th April. Prosecutor said on Monday afternoon his wife gave him half a crown to change and used the word “Alf.” Witness went into the tap room and asked whose change it was, and Hallam said “Mine,” and the witness gave him 2s 6d. He did not think it was right and went to ask his wife about it. Whilst doing so, the prisoner went out of the house. Witness afterwards went to the Melton Street Brewery, where he saw the prisoner. Told him he had made a mistake and asked for the 2s 6d again. Hallam said he had never had it, and the witness gave him into custody. Mrs. Pinsent said she received a half crown from a young man named Alfred Frith and gave it to her husband, asking him to change it for “Alf.” Meaning Frith.

A man who was in the taproom of the “Sir Robert Peel” deposed to seeing the prisoner receive some money from the prosecutor – P.C. Lenton said he received the accused in custody. When he charged him with the offence he replied: “I never done it; I have never had it.” – Hallam now admitted the offence. He was recommended to leniency by the prosecutor, and the Bench imposed a fine of 10s- or seven-days’ hard labour.

Aspley Guise: Inquest: On Tuesday evening inquest was held at the Bell Hotel Mr. F. F. Tanqueray, coroner for the Honor of Amptill, the body of Alma Corkett, the infant child of James and Mary Corkett. The child was only seven weeks old; had been unwell a few days, but no medical man had been consulted. Becoming worse, the mother carried it to Woburn, and on uncovering the body at the surgery found it dead. The mother said the child was seven weeks old, and very delicate; it had a cough from its birth. On Friday evening it became worse, and on Saturday morning she carried it in her arms to Woburn, carefully wrapped a shawl. When she reached the surgery, it was dead, and she carried it back home. The symptoms of Friday night were a helpless drowsiness and throwing up of the feet. All the medicine she gave was some cough stuff obtained from Mrs. Perry, and which she showed the doctor. When she neared Birchmoor she felt the child make a slight struggle. Pincet Smith (Veasey and Lucas), surgeon, stated that the child was brought to their surgery on Saturday last. He had made a postmortem examination and concluded that the cause of death was bronchitis. The child was well nourished, and the body was perfectly natural in its appearance. A verdict of death from bronchitis was returned.

J. Sharp) presided, and Messrs. Pincen, Tatton (Manchester), Glasier and Rogers, solicitors, appeared for creditors, and Mr. Bradley appeared for the debtor. The summary of accounts showed the total liabilities to be £4,257, and the total deficiency £2,673 6s. 7d. ... (continues) ...

Mr. Cadbury was wholly unaware of any such partnership the debtor alleged between him and his brother. – Mr. Pincen produced a letter to a Mr. McLaren, one of the creditors, in which he admitted partnership, and accepted liability for continued credit. — Mr. Glasier submitted that that did not affect the validity of his proof. If there was partnership, then the assets were partnership assets, and his action was against them. The partnership signature was "Thomas Fairfax." It was suggested by Mr. Pincen that Mr. Glasier should withdraw his proof and thereby forego his claim to nominate a trustee. ... (continues) ...

Bankruptcy Proceedings: the affairs of Mr. Thomas Fairfax: A meeting of the creditors of Thomas Fairfax, draper, of 181 Broad Street, Birmingham, was held yesterday at Whitehall Chambers, Colmore Row, the Official Receiver, (Mr. Luke J. Sharp) presiding. Mr. Bradley appeared for Mr. S. Mitchell, the debtor's solicitor; Mr. Glaisyer for Mr. John Cadbury, a large creditor; Dr. Rogers for Mr. Joseph Fairfax, and Mr. Pinsent and Mr. Tatton (Manchester) on behalf of creditors. The statement of accounts showed debts to unsecured creditors, £4,127 2s 1d. ... (discussion) ...

He might add that Joseph Fairfax was not worth a brass farthing to the creditors, for if he had anything he (Mr. Glaisyer) would have another £1,350 to prove against him for money borrowed in his private capacity for the purpose of the business and used in the business. Mr. Pinsent suggested that as Mr. Glaisyer's proof was one which would have to be investigated, he should temporarily withdraw it and forgo the power it would give him of carrying the appointment of a trustee of his nomination. He should have a right to appeal to the Board of Trade on the subject afterwards if he thought it desirable ...

The Official Receiver supported Mr. Pinsent's suggestion, but Mr. Glaisyer said he should adhere to his legal position ...

The debtor was then questioned by Mr. Pinsent at some length with regard to his brother's relation to the business. ... (continues) ...

Mr. Pinsent formally objected to Mr. Cadbury's proof, but the Official Receiver decided that he must admit it and Mr. Glaisyer then carried his nomination of Mr. E. M. Sharp as Trustee ...

Surrey Advertiser: Saturday 4th August 1888

Milford: Interesting Wedding: An exceedingly pretty wedding was celebrated in the parish church on Thursday in but week, and the large amount of popular interest which centred in the event was testified by the crowded attendance at the service. The bride was Miss Ellen Frances Parker, daughter of the late Rev. Richard Parker (formerly rector of Claxby, Lincolnshire) and of Mrs. Parker, the White House, Milford; and the bridegroom was Mr. Hume Chancellor Pinsent, son of Mr. Richard Pinsent, of Plymouth. The bride's family have only resided at Milford just over twelve months, but during that time their kindness and courtesy have won them a large amount of respect and esteem. The officiating clergymen were the Rev. John Warren (rector of Willoughby, Lincolnshire) and the Rev. C. E. Cooper (vicar of Milford). The bridesmaids were Miss Beatrice Parker (sister of the bride), Miss B. Hollway, and Miss Violet Koe; and the best man was Mr. Claude E. Thompson (Trinity College, Cambridge). The dresses of the bride and bridesmaids were most charming and elicited much admiration. The bride's attire consisted of white silk, trimmed with pearl embroidery, tulle veil, fastened with diamond star, the gift of the bridegroom, and orange blossoms; whilst she carried an elegant bouquet, composed of white roses and lilies. The bridesmaids' dresses were of lavender Liberty silk, trimmed with lace and cream roses, and they wore cream tulle bonnets, the silver buckles which they also wore being presented by the bridegroom. The bride was given away by H. R. J. Parker, her brother. The talented organist (Mr. J. Palmer) admirably rendered several pieces of music before the arrival of the wedding party; whilst the register was being signed the Bridal March from "Lohengrin" was performed, and as the party left the church Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." The girls of the Band of Hope strewed flowers in the pathway of the happy couple as they departed from the sacred edifice after the ceremony. The church was also very tastefully decorated by some of the bride's friends. Mrs. Parker held an "At home" at her residence, the White House, in the afternoon. and same choice music was rendered on the lawn by the excellent band of King Edward's School, Witley. Among the wedding guests were—Mr. and Mrs. E. Radford, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Tallents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Rowe, Mr. Danby, Mr. Cracroft, the Rev. and Mrs. Cooper, Miss Cooper, Misses Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, Miss Clarke, Mrs. French, Misses Lee, Mrs. Pattison, Misses Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Stedman. Mrs. Holl and Miss Tulk, Miss Linzee, Mrs. Back and Miss Chaplin, Mr. and Mrs. Kinglake, Mr. Milner, Mrs. Tring, Misses Wren, Miss Hollinshead, Misses Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Radford, Mr. A. Pinsent, Miss Francis, Misses Koe, Misses Hollway, Mrs. and Master Bolton, and the Misses Collin. The bride's travelling costume consisted of a grey dress, and white straw hat trimmed with white ribbon and cock's plume. The honeymoon will be spent on the Continent. The presents were very handsome and numbered over 100, including the following:—Diamond star, Mr. H. C. Pinsent; diamond ring, Mrs. Parker; sapphire ring, Mr. G. A. Parker; diamond pin and eight autotypes, framed, Mr. E. H. Parker and Miss E. Francis; four silver candlesticks, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Parker; Indian china tea service, Mr. H. C. The County Council: On Wednesday at noon a meeting of parishioners of the parish of Highweek was held in the girls' schoolroom, the Rev. S. G. Harris presiding, to consider that portion of the Government Act relating the election of a County Councillor for the Chudleigh district, and more particularly for nominating a deputation to attend a public meeting to be held that evening on the subject at Kingsteignton. The following were appointed: Mr. W. Pinsent, Capt. Down, Major Kitson, Mr. W. Vicary, Mr. R. Vicary, Mr. R. Pascoe, Mr. T. Underhay, and Mr. T. Shilston. At Kingsteignton and other parts of the district the opinion is most prevalent that Mr. W. Vicary, if nominated, will stand a good chance among any that may be pitted against him.

The funeral of the late Mr. Tom Pinsent, the eldest of the three sons of the firm of Pinsent and Sons, brewers, and spirit merchants, of Newton Abbot, took place yesterday morning at Highweek in the presence of a large circle of relatives and sympathising friends, by whom the deceased was held in the highest esteem. His death, occurring at the early age of 47, caused quite a sadness among the parishioners generally, who showed their respect for him by partially closing their shops and drawing their blinds during the hour of sepulture. Mr. L. Bearn was the undertaker; Mr. Colwill, of the Commercial Hotel, supplied the open hearse and coaches, and the men employed by the firm acted as bearers. The Rector (Rev. S. G. Harris) officiated. Deceased leaves a widow, but no family.

The Deritend Election: The preparations for the decision of the clerical contest in Deritend seem to be moving forward with more official directness than has previously been the case. Mr. G. T. Smith, who is acting legal adviser to Mr. Sneath, this morning received the following communication from the Bishop of Worcester, who seems much exercised in his mind by reason of the scandal resulting from the strife: “Hartlebury, Kidderminster, May 6, 1889. Dear Sir, — The Bishop of Norwich informs that the Rev. W. C. Badger was instituted by him to the cure of Bressingham on Saturday last. The chaplaincy of St. John’s has therefore become vacant by virtue of the Act 13, 14 Vic., cap. 98, secs. 3 and 7. — Yours faithfully, H. Worcester: Mr. G. T. Smith.” The solicitors of the trustees have also moved in the matter. Mr. Smith has been the recipient of an epistle from Messrs. Smith, Pinsent, and Co., stating that they will call a meeting of the trustees for to-morrow and advise them to advertise for candidates. Although the proceedings relative to the contest are at such an advanced stage, officially the campaign is only just opening. In accordance with legal formalities, it is necessary to publicly advertise the vacant living, although it is tolerably certain that no more candidates will take the field. ...

St. John's Chaplaincy, Deritend: The Nominations: The nomination of candidates for the chaplaincy of St. John's Chapel, Deritend, vacant by the resignation of the Rev. W. C. Badger, took place yesterday morning in the schools adjoining the chapel in Chapel House Street, at a public meeting of the parishioners, in whom the right of patronage is vested. The three candidates who had been before the constituency for some weeks had previously agreed through their legal representatives that the proceedings at the nominations should be as formal as possible; but the parishioners were present in great force; the majority support the candidate their choice, and many, no doubt, anticipation of a disturbance. ...

About five minutes to ten the Rev. Llewellyn Davies entered the room with his solicitor (Mr. E. Rowlands), Messrs. T. H. Aston, C. C. Budd, A. Wood, J. H. Trewolla, Reeves, and G. Burrows, and was greeted with cheer by his supporters. Then followed Mr. R. A. Pinsent, the solicitor to the trustees St. John's; Mr. C. A. Harrison, the secretary to the trustees; and Alderman Johnson, the returning-officer. Alderman Johnson was heartily welcomed, and then a few moments were once again spent in cheering and groaning the candidates. ...

The Chairman asked if any inhabitant had any other candidate to propose, and there being no response he proceeded to take a show of hands, Mr. C. A. Harrison and Mr. R. A. Pinsent assisted the counting of the votes, but no instance were the actual numbers declared. The show of hands was first taken for the Rev. L. H. Davies, and nineteen voted for him. When those in favour of the Rev. C. J. Sneath were asked to vote, there was a cry, "Now, then, one hand for the boozers" a remark which elicited a roar of laughter, and a rejoinder that the author deserved to be thrown out of the room. For Mr. Sneath eighty voted. As soon as the Rev. J. O. West's name was called the Chairman there was a tremendous shout, and up went the hands. It was at once apparent that Mr. West had a great majority, and the exultation of his friends was remarkably conspicuous ...

was no necessity to count, and Mr. Harrison and Mr. Pinsent estimated the number of votes for Mr. West at 150. ... (continues) ...

At six o'clock the poll closed, and the polling books from the out-stations were conveyed to the schoolroom in Chapel House Street. Some delay occurred owing to the fact that the candidates, in order to keep down expenses, had declined to allow the presiding officers cabs. Public House and the Baptist Chapel: Remarkable Case: Devon Summer Assises, before Mr. Justice Denman, the case of Vicary v. Scammell was heard on Wednesday ...

Mr. Thorne said that the plaintiff claimed damages for the interception of light caused by the erection of high buildings by the defendant. Defendant denied this, and further joined the issue on the ground that the plaintiff had acquiesced ...

In this case the plaintiff owned the freehold of a public house which he occupied at Teignmouth called the Royal Oak. He had occupied it for 23 years and held the freehold for 10 years. The inn was situated on Commercial Road. The road was very narrow, only 10 feet 11 inches in width and for many years prior to the action there existed opposite the inn, a high building, adjoining which was a low building, and again beyond that high building in the occupation of Mr. Kent. ...

The chapel now extended the whole length and was 15 ft height to the eaves and 26 ft 9in to the ridge, so that it was double that of the former building. ... (continues) ...

John Acland, traveller for Pinsent and Sons, Newton Abbot, brewers, stated that he called regularly on the plaintiff. Before the building was erected, he used to have his bills settled in the bar, but now he could not do so without artificial light ... (continues) ...

Mr. Vicary had obtained £50 damages for the diminution of light to his property by the erection of the new Baptist Chapel. The loss will fall heavily on the new cause, but, doubtlessly, many of its friends will practically evince their sympathy. ...

A Batch of Bad Boys: named John Donnelly, John Waller, John Arthur Pinsent, Robert Baynes, and Samuel Newton were all charged with sleeping in a barn on Meadow-road on the previous night. Police-constable Nash said he found the prisoners asleep in the barn and said they had been there for three nights previously. They were boys of a very trouble-some character. They frequented the Recreation Ground playing cards, throwing stones. Some of them got a living by selling papers and the others were ranging about the streets. The boys were said to have wretched homes, some their parents were in gaol and the Police have records of them. Pinsent, who came from Leicester, was ordered to be sent to an industrial school. Baynes and Newton were sent to gaol for seven days. Donnelly and Waller were allowed one trial more, on promising to seek for employment and quit their vagabond ways.

The Novey Right of Way Case: Endacott v. Heat: This was a case in which plaintiff, a butcher of Bovey Tracey, sued the defendant, a marine store dealer of the same place, for the recovery of 40s damages for trespass, and in which he also sought to secure an injunction. The case came before his Honour at the September Court, and was adjourned until today to enable the judge to deliver judgement: ... (in the absence of documentary evidence of ownership of the path, the Judge stated that he had to assume that the soil belonged to the plaintiff as his premises were partially built over the path) ... "this view was strengthened by a reference to the deed of November 23rd 1881, which showed that the roadway in front of the three cottages, now belonging to the plaintiff, was conveyed with the cotter, as the right of way over it was expressly reserved; and as Thomas Pinsent was the owner, not only of the cotter, but of the plaintiff's and Mrs. Murch's premises, and, as the roadway was the immediate continuation of the archway passate, he thought it extremely probable that Pinsent made the passageway as a means of access to and from his cottages and the street. That being his opinion of the facts, it followed that the defendant's right to go over the land was a right to an easement only, and seeing from the deed of 1881 that this easement was restricted to persons and horses, and that the opening into defendant's yard was not wide enough for carts or carriages, he thought the grant made to the defendant's predecessors was similarly limited. ...

A Belbroughton Rating Case: Important Point: At the Stourbridge Police court, yesterday, before Colonel's Fletcher and Cochrane and A. F. Godson, Esq., M.P., Mr. Charles P. Noel, Belbroughton, was summoned by the overseers of Belbroughton, for poor rates, amounting to £9 5s. Mr. Waldron appeared for the overseers, and Mr. H. C. Pinsent (of the firm of Smith Pincet and Co., Birmingham defended). It was submitted that a man named Valentine had permission from Mr. Noel to live at the Yew Tree House rent free. He was paid no wages, but he sold the produce of the garden, except that which he used himself. Mr. Noel also supplied coal for the airing of the house. A man named Fox, of Belbroughton gave evident that Mr. Noel allowed him to have the stable at Yew Tree House, and also allowed him the use of the coach house to put his cart in. This was allowed him free, and he did nothing whatever in return for Mr. Noel. It was a pure gift. Mr. Waldron contended that Valentine lived on the premises, and was a servant, and acted under the orders of Mr. Noel, the question was as to whether Valentine was beneficially occupied. Mr. Pincet contended that as Valentine had no wages, and that he was at the house by the kindness of Mr. Noel, he (Mr. Noel) was not liable. If anyone took to the house Valentine would have to turn out at a minute's notice. Therefore, he could not be beneficially occupied. The case lasted a considerable time, and the Bench made an order for payment, allowing the solicitor's fee.

Noel was summoned by the Overseers of Belbroughton for a poor-rate of £9. 5s. on the Yew Tree House, which forms part of his estate. Mr. Waldron appeared for the Overseers, and Mr. Pinsent (Birmingham) for the defendant. The property in respect to which the rate was claimed has been untenanted for several years, and the gardens, shrubbery, plantation, and pools belonging to the house are about 10 acres. Mr. Noel has had a caretaker named Valentine in the house, and a person named Fox has stabled a horse and kept a cart on the premises. Neither of them paid anything to Mr. Noel, they stated, but Valentine, in addition to occupying certain rooms at the house, had the produce of the garden. Mr Noel found coal for airing the house. Valentine said he used the money for the vegetables he sold for his own domestic purposes, and in the course of his evidence he stated that he should have to turn out at a moment's notice if the house were let. The arrangement was that he was to go to Yew Tree House till he could get into a situation. He had not rendered an account to Mr. Noel of the produce of the garden, and Mr. Noel had derived no benefit from it. The garden was about an acre and a half in extent, and there were greenhouses in which he grew tomatoes. The case occupied a considerable time, and Mr. Waldron contended on behalf of the Overseers that there was a beneficial occupation of the property. Mr. Pinsent urged that there was no beneficial occupation whatsoever by Mr. Noel. Several cases bearing on the point were referred to, and in the end the Bench decided to make an order for the payment of the rate.

Birmingham Cattle and Poultry Show: Awards of the Judges: ...

Dorkings: The Dorking breeders are represented in strong force and by some excellent quality. Last year's show of coloured, silver grey and white was one of the best which had ever been held at Bingley Hall, and this year's is quite equal to it, as many as 166 being penned. Most of this year's winners appear in the list for the first time, and some of the older exhibitors have been ousted. Mr. B. Smith, who figured prominently in the last prize list for coloured cocks and cockerels, is now beaten in both. Mr. J. Harris winning the first named class and Mr. W. S. Pinsent in the other. In addition, Mr. Pinsent also receives the cup for the best exhibits in both classes. Mr. Harris is second with the cockerels and Mr. Smith second with cocks and fourth with cockerels. As indicating the quality of the latter class, it may be stated that as many as eleven are mentioned by the judges. Mr. Pinsent shows a typical old hen and with it secures the prize, together with the cup when shown in competition with hens or pullets, coloured, silver-grey, or white. For coloured pullets Mr. Smith is first, and second for hens ... (continues) ...

Sale of G. Kynoch & Co Ordinary Shares: Messrs. Thomas and Bettridge offered for sale by public auction at the Colmore Estate Sale Room, last evening 2,000 ordinary £10 shares of G. Kynoch and Co. (Limited) fully paid up. No announcement was made as to the ownership of the shares, but the conditions of sale stated that the circumstances of the lien under which the shares were sold would be explained to the purchaser. As, however, the instructing solicitor was Mr. Pinsent (of Barlow, Smith and Pinsent) and the proceedings were also watched by Mr. Edward Rowlands, as solicitor to Mr. George Kynoch, it was understood that the shares were part of the 4,000 credited to Mr. Kynoch as the purchase money for his concern, and half of which were held by the company as against a debt of £15,000 due from Mr. Kynoch to them. ...

The following are the awards: Class 1: For best cow or heifer - First, Mr. C. Cornish; second, Mr. A. C. Loveys; r, Mr. C. Cornish. Class 2: Best pair of fat steers – First, Dowager Countess of Morley; second, Mr. Tapper, Teignmouth; r, Mr. Whiteway: Class 3: Pen of five fat wethers - First, Mr. A. C. Loveys; second, the Dowager Countess of Morley: Class 4: Pen of five fat hogs - First, Mr. J. White, Ashton; second, Mr. Whiteway, Chudleigh; r, Mr. Pinsent: Class 6: Keeping stock – best pair of heifers in calf - First, Mr. A. C. Loveys; second, the Dowager Countess of Morley; r, Mr. J. White: Class 6: Pen of five longwool ewes in lamb - First, Mr. Whiteway; second, Mr. Pinsent, Bovey Tracey: Class 7: Pen of five ewe hogs - First, Mr. Whiteway; second the Dowager Countess of Morley; r, Mr. Pinsent. The sale of sheep and bullocks included several lots of prime animals, for which the biddings were lively. Some South Downs from the Whiteway flock were purchased at 62s. The Dowager Countess of Morley contributed several good specimens, including fat heifers and steers, heifers in calf, and ewe and wether hogs. The attendance of farmers was good, and the market a successful one. In the afternoon a numerous company dined at the Clifford Arms.
