Cricket: Middle Park v. Preston: ... There was a good attendance of spectators to witness the game between Middle Park and Preston at Middle Park. The home team batted first, but with the score at 3 Nance was howled. Pinsent and Keyhoe carried the score to 50 for the second wicket, when Pinsent was bowled for a nicely compiled 20. The next few wickets fell rapidly, but a timely stand by McGowan and Keyhoe, who added 86 for the seventh wicket, put Middle Park in a satisfactory position. A. Keyhoe made 84 by free cricket. He received a nasty blow on the ankle when 24, which necessitated his retirement for half an hour, but on resuming he batted pluckily. He was batting for an hour and 20 minutes and hit two 6's and eight 4's. McGowan shaped well for 47, and Goold made 15.

The innings closed for 198. Holiday secured the best bowling figures, with three for 21, while Whittle got-two for 10. Preston has scored 11 runs without loss. ...

The third wicket fell at 40 of which Pinsent had scored 32. With the score at 50 Ford ricked his back and had to retire, the game being delayed for 10 minutes. With the exception of Morris (22) none of the others offered any resistance to the bowling of Ford and innings closed for 121. Ford secured seven for 28 off 123 balls with four maidens. Footlight' Lure: Adelaide Girl's Dream Dispelled: Adelaide Girl's Dream Dispelled: That the desire of Alice Pincent, 17 (?) of Croydon, South Australia, to become a film star led to her leaving for Melbourne in the company of an actor in the belief that she was about to realise her ambition was alleged by Detective Sub-Inspector Coonan in the City Court, when Leslie Holliday, described as an actor, was charged with having insufficient lawful means of support. "The girl answered an advertisement in an Adelaide newspaper, which stated that three young fair girls were required for film pictures," said Detective Coonan. "She was told that if she paid a deposit of £2 she would be guaranteed £4 a week in two months." The mother of the girl paid the required deposit, the detective said, and allowed the girl to accompany Holliday in a motorcar to Mount Lofty on Sunday. Holliday informed the mother that the girl would be away only for the day at a class of instruction for the aspiring actresses. "The girl", said Detective Coonan "did not return home." After going to Mount Lofty Holliday informed her that he had fallen in love with her and offered to take her away. He brought her to Melbourne yesterday and obtained a room at the Peoples' Palace, King street. When asked by Holliday if she would let him have her diamond ring to pawn, the girl realised that she had been duped and appealed to the Salvation Army for assistance. "Holiday has no means of support at present," said

Detective Coonan, "and we wish to detain him until we receive further information from the parents of the girl in Adelaide." Holliday was remanded to appear at the City Court on September 18.

Tennyson Jesse's new play is founded on the novel idea of a man who plans an elopement to the Azores, and does not discover until several days out on the voyage that the adored one, supposedly in a snug saloon cabin, and entered on the ship's books as his wife, has been replaced at the last moment by her niece, a saucy girl in her teens, determined to "save auntie" or perish in the attempt ... continues ... During her absence in the bathroom, the explorer increased the merriment by coming in at the window to his little bed, where he removed his coat and slippers amidst giggles from the gallery. The height of the fun was reached when the elderly maid Pinsent came in during the retirement of Tony, similarly to, "take off her things" - a farcical complication which seemingly ensured the success of the piece. ...

Mrs. PINSENT, who has been travelling in America, had a nice little problem to work out all the time she was there. She was meeting and summing up the American men, but decided Australians are best, so, instead of settling down there with a near millionaire, she returned to Australia, to be met in Sydney by Brigadier-General J. C. Stewart. They were quietly married before coming on to Melbourne. Mrs. Stewart has gone to The Hotel Pinsent, Wangaratta, for a time, to settle up her affairs, but will ultimately make her home in Melbourne.

ASKED her impression of American women: Mrs. Stewart, unlike most travellers, will not make any sweeping statement, explaining they vary so. In New York they are undeniably smart but inclined to rather over dress. In Chicago they seem all clammy and rushed, as if they have no time to spare to make themselves look nice: they make-up very heavily all over the East. In Salt Lake City the girls struck her as the most beautiful, but not so smart. In the West they do not dress so much for the street. In the evening, everywhere, they dressed very elaborately and in bright colors. Mrs. Stewart says that "Their high-pitched voices and their restlessness become very wearying. There does not seem much real domestic happiness there, in spite of lovely homes. One young American man, who has lived in Australia, said to me when leaving: 'You are lucky going back.'" When I reminded him that he was an American, and ought to be pleased to be settled there, he said, 'Yes, I know, but here it all seems artificial, while life there is sincere and homelike,' and that was just my impression."

“Hiking Costume”: It looks as if in the near future carpers at the short skirt mode for women will have to learn tolerance of an even more daring innovation. This is knickers as the feminine day wear. Already they are much worn in England for golf and country, and are quite common in U.S.A., where they are known as "hiking costume" — or, as we should say, touring or walking costume. Mrs. Pinsent, who recently spent the tourist's full allowance of six months in America, says that in California and all over the Western States you rarely see anything but "hiking costume" in the daytime'. "But for the evening the women dress most beautifully, very bright Colors being most in favour.

Gavin then being caught and bowled by Pinsent for 13. Seven wickets were down for 101 and with only a few minutes to play the excitement became intense. Woodward joined Owens and taking all the risks, Middle Park's total was passed with five minutes to spare. Owens remained not out with 26. Relf took four wickets for 31 runs and Pinsent tow for 36. Middle Park's total reached 107 and occupied 115 minutes in the making. White and Schade opened for Havelock. With his first ball Henry clean bowled Schade. Table Talk (Melbourne, Vic.: 1885-1939): Thursday 9th August 1928

There is an Australian Settler in Denver, U.S.A., Mrs. Cypher, who is always ready to take up the cudgels for Australia or Australians whenever she deems it necessary. When the Southern Cross was on its way to Australia one of the leading Denver papers. The Post, published a caustic paragraph about the Southern Cross in its hop across the Pacific establishing a new record, and went on to state that the flight did not bring the thrill that Lindbergh had roused as the first to demonstrate that a plane could cross the Atlantic, it will be noticed they have a convenient habit in America of forgetting that others had flown the Atlantic before Lindbergh. The par went on to say that Lindbergh did not have wireless installed, so as to call for help in an emergency. Mrs. Cypher at once hurled a javelin for the Australians and a very pointed one in the form of a witty letter to The Post, declaring that the world was not so dead that it could not thrill again, and asking why censure these brave men because they have taken the precaution to equip their plane with wireless. She ends, "So hats off to 'Lindy,' first to cross the ocean, but don't put them on so tight they won't come off again. It is safe to say Australia will risk sunstroke to take their hats off to them." This letter was published and, what is more, was accorded first prize for outside contributions, to the surprise of the writer. The Post has a very pleasant custom of having this volunteer contributed matter adjudged each day, and that considered the host is awarded a prize. As they receive hundreds of letters a day in consequence of these prizes, it is a decided feather in anyone's cap to win a place, much more a prize. Mrs. Cypher is the daughter of Mrs. Stuart, of Melbourne, who is, however, much better known to most people by her former name, Mrs. Pinsent, of Wangaratta.

The Argus (Melbourne, Vic: 1848-1956): Monday 19th November 1928

Cricket: Victorian Junior Association: Middle Park v South Melbourne Footballers: MIDDLE PARK SURPRISE. A. Pinsent 101: Middle Park winning the toss against South Melbourne Footballers opened with Pinsent and Miller, to the bowling of Orton and Dean. From the start both batsmen went for the runs, 50 appearing in 25 minutes, and 100 in 50 minutes. With the score at 111, Miller was caught off Bachelor for a well-played 49, made in 50 minutes and including five 4s. The next two wickets fell cheaply but McKee assisted Pinsent to add 55 runs for the fourth wicket, when Pinsent was bowled by Bachelor for 101, which took him just under two hours to make, and included one 6 and 14 4s. It was one of the best innings he has played in his long career in junior cricket, and he was heartily applauded at its finish ...

Richmond City 121 (Newman 50, McDonald 18, Porter 17, Gavin 16; Relf eight for 54) by 41 runs on the first innings. Newman was the only batsman to play Relf with confidence. His half-century was of great service to Richmond. Middle Park have a good young team, and so far, are undefeated.

Middle Park 156 and two for 21 d. Havelock 149 (White 68 not out, Cusdin 21; Pinsent nine for 49). South Melbourne Footballers 194 (Way 36 not out, Lyon 32, Docwra 27, Gilchrist 23, Avery 24, Bennett 14, Batchelor 14; Relf four for 54, Lynott two for 35) v. Middle Park one for 15 (Pinsent 11 not out). The footballers have made a good score, mainly through their batsmen producing their true form: Although set a big task, Middle Park possess a number of fine young players who should make a bold bid for victory.

Middle Park found the Footballers' attack too strong and although Rutter, Relf and Bollman did fairly well, the other batsmen were unable to play Ellis and Gilchrist, who maintained a splendid length. South is an improving team.
